British Forces Battle To Stem Cyprus Conflict

500 Paratroops Will Be Flown To Mideast Bastion

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—British troops moved into battle Thursday night to stem the spreading civil war between Greek and Turk Cypriots.

The War Office in London disclosed meanwhile that 500 crack parachute troops are being airlifted out to this last remaining British Middle East bastion.

A London spokesman said the additional forces are needed to meet what it called deterioration of the internal security situation here.

British troops on the scene moved into the midst of the communal conflict after another day of gunfire, burning and pillage.

Two Greek Cypriots were reported killed and many persons were wounded in the new outbreaks.

In the recent outbreaks of violence, the British find themselves in the middle rather than the main target of dissidents.

Greek Cypriots in the past have attacked the British from underground in their campaign for independence from British rule and eventual union of Cyprus with Greece. The British government is expected to announce Tuesday a plan for the future of Cyprus.

The present communal conflict stems mainly from Turkish minority fears that if Britain leaves, the rule will pass to the Greek-origin majority. The Turks favor partition rather than Greek dominance.

British forces joined the fighting Thursday night when Turk Cypriots tried to storm Kyrenia Gate police headquarters. The troops drew batons, charged and broke up the demonstration.

Immediately after the disturbance the authorities clamped an earlier curfew on the Turk Cypriot quarter.

Thursday's casualties brought to 10 the number of deaths in rioting that has broken out daily since an explosion erupted outside a Turkish information center in Nicosia last Friday.

There was a pitched battle between Turk and Greek Cypriots in Nicosia Wednesday night near police headquarters. Two armed companies of British troops had to be called in to end the clash.

HELD BY POLICE—Joseph Paul Goughan, 32, Folsom, Pa., iron worker, is shown at Bethesda, Md., police station where he was charged yesterday in connection with the hit-run deaths of Mrs. Ralph Ricketts, 19, and her 10-month-old son, Andrew. The two were killed instantly Wednesday night when struck by an automobile near their home. (Story on page 4)

Eisenhower Aide Denies Insinuations

Contacted Federal Agency On Behalf Of Industrialist

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sherman Adams acknowledged Thursday that a Boston industrialist, Bernard Goldfine, paid hotel bills for him and that on two occasions he contacted a federal agency personally in Goldfine's behalf.

But Adams, who is President Eisenhower's chief aide, protested that it was "unwarranted and unfair" to insinuate that Goldfine got favored treatment from any federal agency because of Adams' intercession.

"I categorically deny such insinuations," Adams said in a long and tart letter to Rep. Oren Harris (D-Ark.) Harris is chairman of a House subcommittee which is investigating operations of the federal regulatory agencies.

The Harris subcommittee produced evidence Tuesday that Goldfine paid about $2,000 in Boston hotel bills for Adams over the last four years.

Hospitality Of Friend

Adams described this as the hospitality of an old friend. He did confirm the $2,000 figure but told Harris: "Some years ago Mr. Goldfine told me that whenever I had occasion to come to Boston he hoped that I would stay in his hotel suite at the Sheraton-Plaza.

"I understood that he maintained this apartment on a continuing basis. Whenever I was in Boston overnight, I accepted the hospitality thus proffered by my friend.

"It was not until after the records of the Sheraton-Plaza Hotel were subpoenaed by your committee that I learned that Mr. Goldfine did not then maintain an apartment on a continuing basis."

Adams went on to say that late in 1953, at Goldfine's reguest, he called Edward F. Howrey, at that time chairman of the Federal Trade Commission, and asked for an explanation of a letter Goldfine had received from the commission's wool labeling division. Goldfine owns textile mills in four states.

Other Occasions

On another occasion, early in the spring of 1955, Adams said, he made an appointment with Howrey for Goldfine, who wanted to discuss a problem under the Wool Labeling Act.

On a third occasion, sometime in 1956, Adams said he had the President's special counsel telephone the general counsel of the Securities and Exchange Commission and get some information about what he called "the East Boston case." He said Goldfine had complained to him about the SEC's actions in the case.

Love Affair May Have Tragic Ending

Airman 3-C Donald Keeton (left), 19, of Dallas, Tex., left the Gulfport, Miss., municipal airport yesterday morning in a rented plane after leaving a suicide note. Despondent over a love affair recently broken up, Keeton eluded Air Force pursuers and vanished late yesterday. "He's the most wonderful person in the world," sobbed 17-year-old Lynn Bowling (right), of Dallas, the high school girl Keeton despaired of winning. Angry Demos Thwart Ike's Revision Bid

Changes Rejected Before 402-1 Vote On Reorganization

WASHINGTON (AP)—A bill to reorganize the Pentagon sailed through the House Thursday, 402-1, after angered Democrats methodically axed all the changes President Eisenhower asked.

Along the way, Democrats and Republicans traded hot, harsh accusations of playing politics with a vital issue both sides said should remain above partisanship.

Democrats threw their numerical superiority into the battle with telling effect. They closed ranks behind charges that the GOP had stirred up a political row with amendments to a bill that was originally approved unanimously by a bipartisan committee.

So three key amendments, backed by Eisenhower and his Republican supporters, went down to defeat. The House rejected them one at a time and, at the end, in a single package.

Clevenger All Alone

The one - bundle proposal was made by Rep. Cliff Clevenger (R-Ohio), who cast the lone vote against passage.

As it went to the Senate, the defense reorganization bill still would fulfill many of Eisenhower's objectives:

It would concentrate greater authority in the secretary of defense and remove kinks and unify command over the nation's fighting forces. It would strengthen operations of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and put a powerful director in charge of research and weapons development.

But in contrast with a resounding victory Eisenhower scored with Democratic help on passage of his foreign trade bill Wednesday, he nevertheless took a legislative licking a day later.

In a series of teller votes, in which members were counted as they marched up an aisle, the House voted:

1. Not to knock out a provision that the secretary of defense must direct and control the Army, Navy and Air Force only through their civilian secretaries. Eisenhower wanted to channel orders to the services through assistant secretaries of defense acting only on specific instructions from the secretary.

The vote was 183-170.

Other Provision Upheld

2. Not to alter provisions for the secretary or military chief of staff of any of the three services to appeal to Congress an order abolishing combatant functions. Congress could upset the order without risking a presidential veto.

The administration urged that appeals should be denied the secretaries and permitted only by any two of the service chiefs—with Congress under a 45-day deadline by which to act. It lost 23-97.

3. Not to scrap a provision that any service secretary or military chief could take any service problems directly to Congress. Eisenhower wanted to restrict this right to members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and remove authority for them to act on their own initiative. The ballot was 150-82.

Finally, the Republicans wrapped all three Eisenhower amendments into one bundle and lost on a 211-192 roll-call vote.

Senate Group Approves Tax Rate Extension

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House-passed bill to continue at present levels corporation and excise taxes on such things as automobiles and liquor won approval Thursday from the Senate Finance Committee.

The government stands to lose an estimated $2,600,000,000 a year in revenue, beginning July 1, unless Congress extends these rates, raised to their present levels during the Korean War and extended on a year-to-year basis since.

A contest on whether to repeal the 3 per cent tax on railroad freight and the 10 per cent tax on railroad passenger fares was put off until the extension bill reaches the Senate floor.

Sen. George A. Smathers (D-Fla), author of the plan to do away with these rail taxes, said he held back proposing it in committee.

"The climate wasn't right and the time wasn't right," Smathers said.

Strong support for Smathers' proposal has been reported in the Senate. He had indicated in advance he would delay offering it lest he tip off the administration to the names of some of his supporters who might be subjected to pressure. The administration opposes any change now, principally on the ground that the government needs the revenue.

The committee once again rejected a plan by Sen. Paul Douglas (D-Ill) for a six-billion-dollar tax cut Douglas submitted as a weapon against the recession. Douglas said he would try again on the Senate floor.

Lebanon Rebel Leaders Defy United Nations

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Lebanese rebels defied the United Nations Security Council Thursday night as a U.N. peace team hurried in to grapple with a border problem threatening a new Middle East explosion.

Five officers of the U.N.'s Palestine troop supervision organization drove up from Jerusalem on Security Council orders to tackle the job of trying to seal off Lebanon's borders with Syria.

The council decided Wednesday to rush an observation team to Lebanon to make sure no illegal outside aid was flowing in for insurgents fighting the forces of President Camille Chamoun's pro-Western government. Lebanon charges the United Arab Republic of Egypt and Syria are giving military hardware to the rebels. The U.A.R. denies it.

Rebel leaders, after meeting for hours at the home of former Premier Saeb Salam, declared the Security Council's action "will not affect our movement or deflect it from its declared objective" of overthrowing Chamoun.

They said that if the Council really wanted to alleviate the Lebanese crisis, now in its 34th day, the peace teams should bar arms for the government from the United States, Britain, France, Turkey, Iraq and Jordan.

"It is these arms which constituted the primary cause of the tragic turn of events in Lebanon," their statement said.

There was wonder here as to how the U.N. team intended to do its assigned task. The border with Syria is 150 miles long and passes over steep, craggy mountain ranges cut by numerous passes unreachable by motor vehicles but long used by smugglers and their donkeys. Military men estimate it would take at least 5,000 men, and reconnaissance planes to do an effective sealing-off job.

Lovesick Pilot With Suicide On His Mind Loses AF Pursuers

ALEXANDRIA, La. (AP) — A lovesick youth with suicide on his mind buzzed a light plane around two states Thursday, finally lost Air Force pursuers in north Louisiana.

Authorities figured 19-year-old Donald Keeton of Dallas either had crashed in rugged timberland around Monroe and Bastrop, La., or had landed in an out-of-the-way pasture.

Either way, they said, he had to be on the ground, his plane out of fuel.

"He's the most wonderful person in the world," sobbed 17-year-old Lynn Bowling of Dallas, the high school girl Keeton despaired of winning.

"I wanted to get married but called it off because I thought I was too young."

Keeton, an electronics student and airman at Keesler AFB, Biloxi, Miss., took off at 8:15 a.m. from Gulfport, Miss., Municipal Airport. He flew a rented Cessna 120.

Barracks mates at Keesler found his suicide message that said he was going to die anyway and wanted to die in the air because "that is the way to go."

Officials nearly had the youngster at Alexandria, where he landed for about 20 minutes at Esler Field. But, as they closed in, Keeton dropped a telephone receiver in the middle of a mysterious call, dashed to his plane and took off.

W. H. Chevis, manager of the Gulfport airport, said: "I tried to stop him. I waved my arms like mad but he ignored me and taxied by me." Keesler authorities asked Chevis to stop him.

At Alexandria, Willie Mayo, in charge of Esler Field, tried to stall Keeton. State police tried to block his plane on the runway, but he pulled into the air over them.

Next sighting was at Natchitoches, La., the last pioneer stop before travelers entered the Texas country. The plane didn't stop, but headed northwest to Shreveport.

In pursuit went an Air Force helicopter and a jet from England AFB at Alexandria. The jet set down at Barksdale AFB, Shreveport, out of fuel.

Keeton turned due east toward Monroe and Barksdale sent up a B-25 to circle and keep contact with the erratic Texas youth. But, the B-25 followed the wrong light plane, a Stinson, and didn't discover the error until the wrong plane landed at Monroe Airport.

By then, Louisiana police reported Keeton's Cessna flew north of Monroe toward Bastrop, a paper mill town in rough timber country. That was the last location report.

Three Changes In Labor Bill Voted By Senate

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate overwhelmingly adopted Thursday three amendments to a bill aimed at curbing labor-management abuses in an effort to meet criticism of it from the administration.

These three changes written into the measure were only a prelude, however, to what promised to be a sharp and politically explosive controversy over the legislation.

With these preliminaries out of the way, the Senate continued on into a night session to take up other proposed changes likely to touch off the first real dispute.

The administration promised to fight down the line for its proposals.

Secretary of Labor Mitchell hurried home from a conference in Switzerland, conferred with President Eisenhower and GOP Senate leaders and then said administration supporters will introduce amendments to the bill to bring it into line with Eisenhower's proposals.

The labor secretary said in a statement that Sen. H. Alexander Smith of New Jersey, senior Republican member of the Labor Committee, would offer the amendments to the bill sponsored by Sens. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) and Irving M. Ives (R-NY).

The Kennedy-Ives bill differs in a number of respects from the administration's recommendations.

Kennedy blasted back at Mitchell's criticisms, many of which the senator said were "ill-informed and inaccurate." Kennedy suggested to the Senate that maybe Mitchell hadn't read the bill.

The Senate then voted 86-0, with Kennedy assenting, to give Mitchell the power he asked to subpoena union records relating to such things as union elections and finances.

Kennedy also agreed to accept an administration proposal that every member of a union be furnished a copy of the union's financial report in a form specified by the secretary of labor.

4 Crewmen Die In B47 Crash

ENOSBURG, Vt. (AP) — The charred wreckage of a B47 Stratojet which disappeared Wednesday night on a flight from Savannah, Ga., to Plattsburgh, N.Y., was found Thursday on West Hill about 10 miles from the Canadian border.

The four crewmen were dead.

The six - jet medium bomber, weighing 100 tons, cut a 500-yard swath through dense woods and exploded on impact. Live ammunition was scattered.

Cause of the crash was not immediately determined.

The plane apparently crashed about 12:30 a.m. At that hour, Ernest G. Potvin, a 49-year-old dairy farmer who lives in Montgomery, about five miles away, heard an explosion. Several other residents reported hearing the same noise about the same time.

The bomber fell about 1,500 feet away from a gravel road leading from route 118.

The wild country can be reached only by a one-track road. The smouldering wreckage was reached first by a deputy sheriff and border patrolmen.

Strike Delays Liner Sailing Eight Hours

NEW YORK (AP) — The liner United States, with a record 1,776 passengers fidgeting aboard, was held up for eight hours in sailing Thursday by a strike of 46 engineers.

The strikers' grievances eventually were settled and the liner —America's larges—finally moved out 8 p.m. EDT.

The U.S. Lines, owners of the ship, estimated the delay cost $2,000 an hour in labor and maintenance costs, or $16,000 in all.

The ship was due to sail at noon. But the engineers refused to sign on until a list of accumulated grievances was settled.

Run Over By 24-Ton Bulldozer, Air Force Man Clings To Life

SPOKANE (AP) — A plucky young public relations officer who was run over by a 24-ton bulldozer while taking pictures of a groundbreaking ceremony clung to life Thursday at Fairchild Air Force Base hospital.

Lt. Thomas Vrana, 23, of Pittsburgh, Pa., climbed on the front of the heavy machine to take a picure of Col. Willard B. Atwell, the Fairchild Commander who was at the controls to turn the first housing project Wednesday.

Atwell put the machine in motion and Vrana got poised to click ground for a four-million-dollar his camera.

The young lieutenant slipped off sideways and fell between the two heavy tracks of the bulldozer.

Vrana's legs were horribly mangled but his head and the rest of his body were between the two tracks and he escaped with his life.

The lieutenant suffered internal injuries and fractures of both legs but remained conscious.

Flaming Love Affair Doused By Fire Dept.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The flaming love affair of Earl Powell has been doused by the fire department. Instead of seeing a parson, he's charged with arson.

Powell, 42, turned in an alarm from a box outside the empty apartment of his girl friend. He told firemen smoke was coming from the apartment.

They became suspicious because they could not see smoke from the outside, rushed in and put out a fire in a mattress.

Powell told Police Court he got mad at his girl and set the mattress afire just for revenge.

He was jailed in lieu of $1,000 bond on an arson charge.

Ike Sent Note By Khrushchev

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev went over the heads of Moscow negotiators Thursday to send President Eisenhower a new 38 - page message about the possibility of holding a summit conference.

Diplomatic officials were puzzled by the maneuver since negotiations on summit conference issues have been under way in the Soviet capital for several weeks. They are being conducted by Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko with the ambassadors of the United States, Britain and France.

Pending a full translation of the lengthy communication from Khrushchev officials were unable to explain why he had decided to send a message directly to the President at this time. Speculation covered the possibilities that he had some new proposals, that he wanted to give Soviet propaganda a new boost, and that he was reflecting Moscow accusations that the United States is now trying to prevent a summit meeting.

Tornado Leapfrogs Over Topeka Without Damage

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP)—A tornado skipped over this capital city of Kansas late Thursday without causing damage after an alert was in effect nearly an hour.

Sirens sounded at 4:55 p.m. as the Weather Bureau reported a tornado five miles to the southwest moving toward this city of about 80,000 population.

The alert, coming just two days after a tornado killed 13 and injured 57 at El Dorado, Kan., 100 miles southwest of Topeka, sent residents scurrying for basements and whatever shelter they could find.

The funnel pulled up into the clouds and passed almost directly over the city. Later a funnel was sighted in the air near the municipal airport on the northeast side of Topeka.

The Weather Bureau lifted the alert at 5:51 p. m. and told residents they could leave their shelters.

The scare came as numerous tornado sightings were reported along a line of severe thunderstorms extending from northwest Missouri to southwestern Kansas.

The Weather Bureau forecast tornado conditions for eastern Kansas to northeastern Missouri.

Other tornadoes were reported late Thursday 10 miles west of Topeka and between Salina and Abilene in central Kansas.

A tornado struck the ground four miles east of Rocky Ford, near Manhattan in north - central Kansas, the Weather Bureau said. Two others were sighted south of Dodge City.

There were no reports of damage.

"Nature Boy" Emerges With Lament And Song

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Eden Ahbez, the bearded, barefoot outdoor lover whose "Nature Boy" record was the big hit of 1948 came out of the hills Thursday with this complaint:

"My wife Anna and I used to get all the fruits, nuts and vegetables we could eat for $3 a week.

"But since our boy Zoma was born nine years ago, everything's gone up. I'll bet we're spending $10 a week now."

It was Nat (King) Cole's smooth sad-voiced rendition of "Nature Boy" that made Ahbez an overnight sensation 10 years ago.

He said he was borr Alexander Aberle and spent his early years in a New York orphanage. At 7 he was adopted by the late W. M. McGrew of Lawrence, Kan.

He was a fruit picker in California, living under a tree and devoting his time to the contemplation of nature and its wonders, when his song caught on.

What has he been doing for the last decade?

"Thinking," he told an interviewer. "I can't work when I'm thinking. I've been thinking up a sequel to 'Nature Boy.' Now I've got it. It's my new message to the world."

He calls it "The Lesson of Love" and it goes:

First you love your mother,
Your sister and your brother,
Then you fall in love with your girl
—Your wonderful girl.
But you have not learned the lesson—
He—the Lord—said you have not learned the lessor
Until you love the whole wide world.

He described it as a "spiritual rock 'n' roll—the first ever."

Lebanon Rebel Leaders Defy United Nations

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Lebanese rebels defied the United Nations Security Council Thursday night as a U.N. peace team hurried in to grapple with a border problem threatening a new Middle East explosion.

Five officers of the U.N.'s Palestine troop supervision organization drove up from Jerusalem on Security Council orders to tackle the job of trying to seal off Lebanon's borders with Syria.

The council decided Wednesday to rush an observation team to Lebanon to make sure no illegal outside aid was flowing in for insurgents fighting the forces of President Camille Chamoun's pro-Western government. Lebanon charges the United Arab Republic of Egypt and Syria are giving military hardware to the rebels. The U.A.R. denies it.

Rebel leaders, after meeting for hours at the home of former Premier Saeb Salam, declared the Security Council's action "will not affect our movement or deflect it from its declared objective" of overthrowing Chamoun.

They said that if the Council really wanted to alleviate the Lebanese crisis, now in its 34th day, the peace teams should bar arms for the government from the United States, Britain, France, Turkey, Iraq and Jordan.

"It is these arms which constituted the primary cause of the tragic turn of events in Lebanon," their statement said.

There was wonder here as to how the U.N. team intended to do its assigned task. The border with Syria is 150 miles long and passes over steep, craggy mountain ranges cut by numerous passes unreachable by motor vehicles but long used by smugglers and their donkeys. Military men estimate it would take at least 5,000 men, and reconnaissance planes to do an effective sealing-off job.

Lovesick Pilot With Suicide On His Mind Loses AF Pursuers

ALEXANDRIA, La. (AP) — A lovesick youth with suicide on his mind buzzed a light plane around two states Thursday, finally lost Air Force pursuers in north Louisiana.

At Alexandria, Willie Mayo, in charge of Esler Field, tried to stall Keeton. State police tried to block his plane on the runway, but he pulled into the air over them.

Next sighting was at Natchitoches, La., the last pioneer stop before travelers entered the Texas country. The plane didn't stop, but headed northwest to Shreveport.

In pursuit went an Air Force helicopter and a jet from England AFB at Alexandria. The jet set down at Barksdale AFB, Shreveport, out of fuel.

Keeton turned due east toward Monroe and Barksdale sent up a B-25 to circle and keep contact with the erratic Texas youth. But, the B-25 followed the wrong light plane, a Stinson, and didn't discover the error until the wrong plane landed at Monroe Airport.

By then, Louisiana police reported Keeton's Cessna flew north of Monroe toward Bastrop, a paper mill town in rough timber country. That was the last location report.

Three Changes In Labor Bill Voted By Senate

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate overwhelmingly adopted Thursday three amendments to a bill aimed at curbing labor-management abuses in an effort to meet criticism of it from the administration.

These three changes written into the measure were only a prelude, however, to what promised to be a sharp and politically explosive controversy over the legislation.

With these preliminaries out of the way, the Senate continued on into a night session to take up other proposed changes likely to touch off the first real dispute.

The administration promised to fight down the line for its proposals.

Secretary of Labor Mitchell hurried home from a conference in Switzerland, conferred with President Eisenhower and GOP Senate leaders and then said administration supporters will introduce amendments to the bill to bring it into line with Eisenhower's proposals.

The labor secretary said in a statement that Sen. H. Alexander Smith of New Jersey, senior Republican member of the Labor Committee, would offer the amendments to the bill sponsored by Sens. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) and Irving M. Ives (R-NY).

The Kennedy-Ives bill differs in a number of respects from the administration's recommendations.

Kennedy blasted back at Mitchell's criticisms, many of which the senator said were "ill-informed and inaccurate." Kennedy suggested to the Senate that maybe Mitchell hadn't read the bill.

The Senate then voted 86-0, with Kennedy assenting, to give Mitchell the power he asked to subpoena union records relating to such things as union elections and finances.

Kennedy also agreed to accept an administration proposal that every member of a union be furnished a copy of the union's financial report in a form specified by the secretary of labor.

Senate Group Approves Tax Rate Extension

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House-passed bill to continue at present levels corporation and excise taxes on such things as automobiles and liquor won approval Thursday from the Senate Finance Committee.

The government stands to lose an estimated $2,600,000,000 a year in revenue, beginning July 1, unless Congress extends these rates, raised to their present levels during the Korean War and extended on a year-to-year basis since.

A contest on whether to repeal the 3 per cent tax on railroad freight and the 10 per cent tax on railroad passenger fares was put off until the extension bill reaches the Senate floor.

Sen. George A. Smathers (D-Fla), author of the plan to do away with these rail taxes, said he held back proposing it in committee.

"The climate wasn't right and the time wasn't right," Smathers said.

Strong support for Smathers' proposal has been reported in the Senate. He had indicated in advance he would delay offering it lest he tip off the administration to the names of some of his supporters who might be subjected to pressure. The administration opposes any change now, principally on the ground that the government needs the revenue.

The committee once again rejected a plan by Sen. Paul Douglas (D-Ill) for a six-billion-dollar tax cut Douglas submitted as a weapon against the recession. Douglas said he would try again on the Senate floor.

Strike Delays Liner Sailing Eight Hours

NEW YORK (AP) — The liner United States, with a record 1,776 passengers fidgeting aboard, was held up for eight hours in sailing Thursday by a strike of 46 engineers.

The strikers' grievances eventually were settled and the liner —America's larges—finally moved out 8 p.m. EDT.

The U.S. Lines, owners of the ship, estimated the delay cost $2,000 an hour in labor and maintenance costs, or $16,000 in all.

The ship was due to sail at noon. But the engineers refused to sign on until a list of accumulated grievances was settled.

Flaming Love Affair Doused By Fire Dept.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The flaming love affair of Earl Powell has been doused by the fire department. Instead of seeing a parson, he's charged with arson.

Powell, 42, turned in an alarm from a box outside the empty apartment of his girl friend. He told firemen smoke was coming from the apartment.

They became suspicious because they could not see smoke from the outside, rushed in and put out a fire in a mattress.

Powell told Police Court he got mad at his girl and set the mattress afire just for revenge.

He was jailed in lieu of $1,000 bond on an arson charge.

Ike Sent Note By Khrushchev

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev went over the heads of Moscow negotiators Thursday to send President Eisenhower a new 38 - page message about the possibility of holding a summit conference.

Diplomatic officials were puzzled by the maneuver since negotiations on summit conference issues have been under way in the Soviet capital for several weeks. They are being conducted by Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko with the ambassadors of the United States, Britain and France.

Pending a full translation of the lengthy communication from Khrushchev officials were unable to explain why he had decided to send a message directly to the President at this time. Speculation covered the possibilities that he had some new proposals, that he wanted to give Soviet propaganda a new boost, and that he was reflecting Moscow accusations that the United States is now trying to prevent a summit meeting.

Run Over By 24-Ton Bulldozer, Air Force Man Clings To Life

SPOKANE (AP) — A plucky young public relations officer who was run over by a 24-ton bulldozer while taking pictures of a groundbreaking ceremony clung to life Thursday at Fairchild Air Force Base hospital.

Lt. Thomas Vrana, 23, of Pittsburgh, Pa., climbed on the front of the heavy machine to take a picure of Col. Willard B. Atwell, the Fairchild Commander who was at the controls to turn the first housing project Wednesday.

Atwell put the machine in motion and Vrana got poised to click ground for a four-million-dollar his camera.

The young lieutenant slipped off sideways and fell between the two heavy tracks of the bulldozer.

Vrana's legs were horribly mangled but his head and the rest of his body were between the two tracks and he escaped with his life.

The lieutenant suffered internal injuries and fractures of both legs but remained conscious.

4 Crewmen Die In B47 Crash

ENOSBURG, Vt. (AP) — The charred wreckage of a B47 Stratojet which disappeared Wednesday night on a flight from Savannah, Ga., to Plattsburgh, N.Y., was found Thursday on West Hill about 10 miles from the Canadian border.

The four crewmen were dead.

The six - jet medium bomber, weighing 100 tons, cut a 500-yard swath through dense woods and exploded on impact. Live ammunition was scattered.

Cause of the crash was not immediately determined.

The plane apparently crashed about 12:30 a.m. At that hour, Ernest G. Potvin, a 49-year-old dairy farmer who lives in Montgomery, about five miles away, heard an explosion. Several other residents reported hearing the same noise about the same time.

The bomber fell about 1,500 feet away from a gravel road leading from route 118.

The wild country can be reached only by a one-track road. The smouldering wreckage was reached first by a deputy sheriff and border patrolmen.

"Nature Boy" Emerges With Lament And Song

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Eden Ahbez, the bearded, barefoot outdoor lover whose "Nature Boy" record was the big hit of 1948 came out of the hills Thursday with this complaint:

"My wife Anna and I used to get all the fruits, nuts and vegetables we could eat for $3 a week.

"But since our boy Zoma was born nine years ago, everything's gone up. I'll bet we're spending $10 a week now."

It was Nat (King) Cole's smooth sad-voiced rendition of "Nature Boy" that made Ahbez an overnight sensation 10 years ago.

He said he was borr Alexander Aberle and spent his early years in a New York orphanage. At 7 he was adopted by the late W. M. McGrew of Lawrence, Kan.

He was a fruit picker in California, living under a tree and devoting his time to the contemplation of nature and its wonders, when his song caught on.

What has he been doing for the last decade?

"Thinking," he told an interviewer. "I can't work when I'm thinking. I've been thinking up a sequel to 'Nature Boy.' Now I've got it. It's my new message to the world."

He calls it "The Lesson of Love" and it goes:

First you love your mother,
Your sister and your brother,
Then you fall in love with your girl
—Your wonderful girl.
But you have not learned the lesson—
He—the Lord—said you have not learned the lessor
Until you love the whole wide world.

He described it as a "spiritual rock 'n' roll—the first ever."

Tornado Leapfrogs Over Topeka Without Damage

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP)—A tornado skipped over this capital city of Kansas late Thursday without causing damage after an alert was in effect nearly an hour.

Sirens sounded at 4:55 p.m. as the Weather Bureau reported a tornado five miles to the southwest moving toward this city of about 80,000 population.

The alert, coming just two days after a tornado killed 13 and injured 57 at El Dorado, Kan., 100 miles southwest of Topeka, sent residents scurrying for basements and whatever shelter they could find.

The funnel pulled up into the clouds and passed almost directly over the city. Later a funnel was sighted in the air near the municipal airport on the northeast side of Topeka.

The Weather Bureau lifted the alert at 5:51 p. m. and told residents they could leave their shelters.

The scare came as numerous tornado sightings were reported along a line of severe thunderstorms extending from northwest Missouri to southwestern Kansas.

The Weather Bureau forecast tornado conditions for eastern Kansas to northeastern Missouri.

Other tornadoes were reported late Thursday 10 miles west of Topeka and between Salina and Abilene in central Kansas.

A tornado struck the ground four miles east of Rocky Ford, near Manhattan in north - central Kansas, the Weather Bureau said. Two others were sighted south of Dodge City.

There were no reports of damage.

Strike Votes Asked By UAW

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers called for strike votes Thursday among 500,000 members working without contracts at Big Three plants.

But UAW leaders emphasized this did not mean abandonment of President Walter P. Reuther's no-strike policy at this time.

They said strike authorizations are being sought from local unions at Big Three plants to back up UAW bargaining teams in their deadlocked negotiations on new contracts. Union members still are under orders not to provoke strikes.

Ken Bannon, director of the UAW's Ford department, said the strike poll among 100,000 Ford workers does not mean there is an immediate threat of a strike at Ford. He added: "We are setting up the machinery in case we need it."

Similar statements came from UAW Vice President Leonard Woodcock, in charge of union negotiations with General Motor, and Art Hughes, UAW administrator who heads the bargaining team in talks with Chrysler.

Woodcock said eight GM locals already have authorized strike action and that the voting will be stepped up over the weekend.

Eaton Accuses Walter Of 'Despicable Tactics'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Industrialist Cyrus Eaton Thursday accused Chairman Francis E. Walter (D-Pa) of the House Committee on Un-American Activities of "despicable un-American tactics."

Eaton said the same goes for Richard Arens, the committee's staff director.

Walter and Arens, Eaton said, are "attempting to intimidate, bully and push citizens around."

The 74-year-old Eaton, Cleveland iron, steel and railroad tycoon, has been exchanging potshots with the committee since May 4 when Eaton told a television audience that the FBI and some other federal agencies engaged in "snooping, informing and creeping up on people."

Arens at first said he had no comment. Later he said: "I'd rather be classified with J. Edgar Hoover (FBI director) and Congressman Francis Walter than with Menshikov and Khrushchev."

Arens did not amplify this. Eaton has displayed letters, including one from Soviet Premier Khrushchev, acknowledging his interest in world peace. Last April, Soviet Ambassador Mikhail Menshikov visited Eaton's farm in Ohio.

Eaton fired his latest salvo in a statement describing as untrue Walter's version of what took place at an informal meeting Wednesday in the office of Rep. Gordon Scherer (R-Ohio), a member of the Committee on Un-American Activities.

Walter said he walked out of the session because a comparison he said Eaton made of the United States with Hitler's Germany "was too much for my stomach."

Mrs. Eisenhower will accompany the President if he goes by car. She will travel separately by automobile if he flies.

The President intends to return to Washington Sunday evening or Monday morning.

Jolitta Schlehuber, 14, of McPherson, Kan., spelled correctly the final two words, "propylaeum" and "syllepsis," to win from the runner-up Terry Madeira, 13, of Elizabethtown, Pa.

Jolitta, who started making a game of spelling when she was 7 or 8 years old, went through 29 rounds of hard and tricky words to win first prize of $1,000 in cash, a trophy cup and $100 for a weekend visit to New York City.

Terry as second place winner was given $500.

Stanley A. Schmidt, 14, of Cincinnati, the last of the 27 boys in in the 31st annual national bee, placed third and received a $250 prize.

The bee is sponsored by the Scripps-Howard and other newspapers.

Jolitta, a blond, slightly built girl with a ready smile, combined a liking for words and the experience of winning fourth place in last year's bee to outlast all the others in the two days of tongue-twisters. She said she also did a bit of praying.

Jolitta is an 8th grader at Harmony Rural School, McPherson.

Agreement Reached On Civil Service Pay

WASHINGTON (AP)—A 10 per cent pay increase for 1,021,000 civil service and other government employes was agreed on Thursday by Senate-House conferees.

The measure now goes back to the Senate and House for action on the conferees' report. If approved, as seems certain, it then will be sent to the White House.

In addition to the regular classified civil service employes, the bill would boost the pay of congressional and federal judiciary employes, Foreign Service officers, Atomic Energy Commission workers, and Veterans Administration medical service employes.

It would increase the federal payroll by about 542 million dollars a year. Because the pay boosts are retroactive to Jan. 1 the first year's cost would be close to 800 million dollars.

The late Maj. Richard I. Bong held the record with 40 kills.

Power In Algeria Junta Flies To Paris

PARIS (AP)—The rightist firebrand politician Jacques Soustelle arrived in Paris Thursday night for face-to-face talks with Premier de Gaulle. He came here from Algiers on De Gaulle's orders — perhaps for reward, perhaps reprimand.

Soustelle, a long-time supporter of De Gaulle, is a power in the military-right wing colonist junta that took power in Algiers May 13. De Gaulle now thinks the militarists should toe his mark and give up politicking.

Why he wanted to see Soustelle so urgently set rumors flying all over Paris.

There were reports he would be offered a high government or diplomatic post. There were other accounts that he would be told to use his influence to calm the committees of public safety in Algeria.

The committees are annoyed and rebellious at the sharp call down De Gaulle gave them Wednesday when he publicly told them not to interfere with his running of the government.

Fights broke out Thursday in Paris at a meeting called to announce formation of a French committee of public safety to oppose communism. The meeting was called by Gen. Lionel Max Chassin, a retired air force officer who went underground in France to support the Algiers insurrection.

Drop In Number Of Jobless Pay Checks Noted

BALTIMORE (AP) — The state paid out 9 per cent fewer unemployment checks to Marylanders in May than it did the previous month, the Department of Employment Security said Thursday.

The DES sent out 174,784 checks in May compared with 191,968 in April. In May 1957 the figure was 74,322.

Initial claims for benefits also dropped, by 32 per cent, from 32,102 in April to 21,827 in May. That indicated a better business outlook, helped in part by an upturn in seasonal employment such as construction work and farming.

Director Robert B. Kimble of the DES, taking note of the decreases in total checks and new claims, said, "Maryland's economy demonstrated sufficient health to respond to seasonal influences. This fact indicates gradual economic improvement in the months ahead."

Kimble said the low in benefit payments was achieved because thousands of claimants have exhausted their benefits since the first of the year. Numbering 17,193, they no longer are reflected in the statistics.

The department reported that in addition to the 174,784 checks sent to jobless persons in Maryland, another 16,632 were paid to claimants residing in other states. This made a total of 191,416.

Maryland has a reciprocal agreement with other states whose residents moved to Maryland and became unemployed here.

The total amount paid to claimants both in the state and outside was $5,650,321 during May. This compared with a total of $5,839,083 in February, the previous low for the year.

Meanwhile, the Department of Employment Security reported a slight increase in claims filed last week compared with the week earlier.

House Of Correction Escapees Captured

CENTREVILLE, Md. (AP) — Two young escapees from the House of Correction at Jessups were picked up early Thursday by a state trooper while they walked along a lonely stretch of Maryland 71, near here.

The two, Milford Wilson, 21, of Church Hill, and James Fortner, 19, of Taneytown, were soaked to the skin from Wednesday's downpour. They offered no resistance.

They said they were headed for Wilson's home.

The two walked off the prison's dairy farm about 9 a.m. Wednesday and hitch-hiked a ride over the bay bridge. They were dressed in the prison's blue denim uniforms.

Wilson was serving a one-year term on a bad check charge and had about seven months to go. Fortner had served about six weeks of a six-months sentence for larceny.

They were returned to the House of Correction.

Man, 32, Held In Hit-Run Deaths Of Mother, Baby

BETHESDA, Md. (AP) — An ironworker found sleeping in a bedroom at a tourist home was charged Thursday in the hit-and-run deaths of a 19-year-old mother and her 10-month-old son.

Mrs. Ralph Ricketts and her son Andrew were struck in front of their home at about 7:15 last night. A witness said: "They never knew what hit them."

Arrested 3½ hours later was Joseph Paul Goughan, 32, who was staying at a Wisconsin avenue tourist home. Police said he came here from Folsom, Pa. about five weeks ago.

Goughan was charged with manslaughter and with leaving the scene of an accident. He was jailed in default of $25,000 bond.

Witnesses gave this account:

Mrs. Ricketts had just started to take the baby for a stroll. She was pushing the stroller along the right side of the road with her back to traffic when a car traveling about 45 m.p.h. struck them from the rear.

Mrs. Ricketts' body was hurled 84 feet. The child's body was dragged 69 feet. Part of the stroller was dragged 168 feet. A wheel section of the stroller was found a mile from the scene.

A witness said he had seen the driver of the car remove the dragging wheel section of the stroller, hop back into the car, and drive off.

Police, who had issued a 13-state alarm and had set up road blocks, received a tip that led them to the tourist home. They said they found a black 1956 Oldsmobile in the rear parking area. The hood, they said, was dented and marked with paint and blood.

Goughan, they said, was found fully dressed and asleep on a bed. Inspector C. V. Miller said it was evident Goughan had been drinking earlier.

SRC Overtime Pay Ruling Requested

BALTIMORE (AP) — The attorney general has been asked to decide the question of overtime pay for certain State Road Commission employes.

The issue came to a head when the SRC submitted to Personnel Commissioner Russell S. Davis a list of workers subject to the 40 hour week. SRC Comptroller Carl L. Wannen said Davis returned the list, with additional names on it.

The Maryland Classified Employes Assn. has complained that the SRC's system of designating supervisors, exempt from the overtime pay provision, is in error.

The association counsel, Charles D. Harris, explained that the commission contends that all making $4,300 annually or more are supervisors, but he insists that this "was not the intent of the 1958 act at all."

The 1958 act established the 40-hour work week.

GOP Urges Single 2-Party Platform Brochure

BALTIMORE (AP)—The chairman of the Maryland Republican Committee has suggested to the Democrats that the two parties publish their platforms in a single brochure and split the expenses.

D. Eldred Rinehart, in a letter to T. Barton Harrington, chairman of the Maryland Democrats, said he was making the proposal "as a service to the public which we jointly can render."

Harrington was unavailable for comment.

Rinehart's move underlined the feeling among Republicans that their platform, adopted at their convention last week, is one of the strongest they have had in years. It includes a strong desegregation plank and supports private leasing of barren oyster bottoms.

Rinehart's letter said in part: "There are, in our platform, and undoubtedly in yours, many planks and points of interest which, in the normal course of events, are likely to escape general notice. The newspapers, cannot, of course, be expected to devote valuable news space to the word-for-word publication of the platforms.

"We believe, as I am sure you do, that the people are entitled to easy access to the platforms and opportunity for easy comparison.

"I much prefer the folder form because each copy could be kept around recipient's home or office and studied and referred to from time to time between the time of reception and election day.

"However, if, for some reason, you and your committee would prefer, we would go along with the side-by-side joint publication of the two platforms in a paid advertisement in several newspapers, covering all areas of the state.

"If you agree with this public service proposal in either form, I will appreciate your advising me promptly so that you and I, or our representatives, may meet to work out an agreement and details of publication."

Drop In Number Of Jobless Pay Checks Noted

BALTIMORE (AP) — The state paid out 9 per cent fewer unemployment checks to Marylanders in May than it did the previous month, the Department of Employment Security said Thursday.

The DES sent out 174,784 checks in May compared with 191,968 in April. In May 1957 the figure was 74,322.

Initial claims for benefits also dropped, by 32 per cent, from 32,102 in April to 21,827 in May. That indicated a better business outlook, helped in part by an upturn in seasonal employment such as construction work and farming.

Director Robert B. Kimble of the DES, taking note of the decreases in total checks and new claims, said, "Maryland's economy demonstrated sufficient health to respond to seasonal influences. This fact indicates gradual economic improvement in the months ahead."

Kimble said the low in benefit payments was achieved because thousands of claimants have exhausted their benefits since the first of the year. Numbering 17,193, they no longer are reflected in the statistics.

The department reported that in addition to the 174,784 checks sent to jobless persons in Maryland, another 16,632 were paid to claimants residing in other states. This made a total of 191,416.

Maryland has a reciprocal agreement with other states whose residents moved to Maryland and became unemployed here.

The total amount paid to claimants both in the state and outside was $5,650,321 during May. This compared with a total of $5,839,083 in February, the previous low for the year.

Meanwhile, the Department of Employment Security reported a slight increase in claims filed last week compared with the week earlier.

Potomac River Slot Ban Faces Court Test Today

LEONARDTOWN, Md. (AP)—An effort to stop the slot machines on the Potomac River will be put to a constitutional court test Friday.

The Circuit Court decision is expected to be taken to the Maryland Court of Appeals, thus extending the life of the slots which have been clicking on borrowed time since June 1.

That is when a law aimed at their extinction by the General Assembly was supposed to become effective.

However, operators of six piers and a converted ferry boat off the Virginia shore of the Potomac River were granted May 21 an injunction restraining enforcement of the law.

The injunction was issued by Circuit Judge Philip C. Dorsey of St. Mary's County.

Chief Judge John B. Gray Jr. will join Judge Dorsey in hearing arguments on a motion by the Maryland attorney general to dissolve the injunction.

The opposing lawyers have agreed they will argue only whether the attempt to knock out the machines is unconstitutional because it was done at a so-called short session of the Legislature last February.

The 30-day sessions are limited by the Constitution to passage only of bills "having to do with budgetary, revenue and financial matters, acute emergency and in the general public welfare."

Slot machine licenses for the Potomac River establishments were granted by St. Mary's and Charles counties of Maryland. They are illegal in Virginia, but the piers and ferry boat are not legally in Virginia—by a couple of feet.

Maryland owns the Potomac River up to the low tide mark on the Virginia shore.

The law, while admittedly aimed at the licenses granted by the two counties, does not so specify.

It prohibits the licensing of slot machines in any establishment which cannot be reached by foot from Maryland soil. The piers and boat in question are accessible by foot only from Virginia.

The same establishments also have licenses from the two counties to sell alcoholic beverages by the drink, contrary to Virginia law. But the law being subjected to test would not affect beverages.

The slot machine operators signalled their intention to fight the law on May 1 by renewing their licenses for another year. If the law had become effective on schedule, the licenses would have been good for only one month.

Delbert W. Conner, the owner of the Little Reno pier at Colonial Beach, Va., paid $43,350 to license 253 machines.

Loren L. Landman paid $350 for 7 machines at Coles Point, Clara McGuigan $1,500 for 10 at Belvedere Beach, Roger D. Welch $4,350 for 29 at Fairview Beach, Dennis Conner $3,300 for 26 at Colonial Beach, the General Amusement Co. $17,500 for 100 at Colonial Beach, and the Freestone Amusement Co. $15,000 for 100 on the boat.

Landman has been licensed since 1947, Dennis Conner since 1950, Delbert Conner and General Amusement since 1951, Belvedere Beach since 1953 and Welch since 1955.

The storm broke over them when licenses were issued last year to the ferry boat off Freestone Point. The operators in their injunction petition stated they spent more than $200,000 to start in business.

IN EVERYDAY HAWAIIAN DRESS—Miss Rose Marie Lindner, 24 Morningside drive; and Miss Jean Santesanio, 131 Hanover Street, are shown wearing the Mou Mou with Go Aheadf, the typical everyday Hawaiian wearing apparel and shoes, while vacationing at the Hawaiian Village Hotel on Waikiki Beach. The young women, stenographers at the Conlon Travel Agency, report there are as many variations of the Mou Mou as the American girl has from play clothes, sack dress to formal. During their stay they visited many of the interesting attractions of the islands and in Honolulu visited Rev. John M. Coulehan, M. M., who is stationed there. Father Coulehan is the son of Mrs. Etta B. Coulehan, 531 Cumberland Street, and the late Bernard J. Coulehan.

Cresaptown Auxiliary Meets Membership Quota

Chilcotte-Cresap Unit 207, American Legion Auxiliary, Cresaptown has reached its quota of membership, it was announced at the meeting held at the home of Mrs. Annie Walsh. Mrs. Orpha Toohey presided.

The group discussed the Cresaptown honor roll and the dedication by Senator J. Glenn Beall, May 25. It was pointed out that help is needed from the community until the debt is paid.

The July 8 meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. Cecelia Lauterback and Mrs. Dorothy Lauterback.

Pleasant Grove Homemakers will meet at 7:30 Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Hayes Clingerman, with Mrs. William Connor cohostess.

DeMolay Will Hold June Dance

A summer dance was planned by members of Cumberland Chapter, Order of DeMolay, at the meeting Wednesday evening at the Masonic Temple. It is to be semi-formal and will be held June 26 at the Ali Ghan Country Club. Music will be by Jimmy Andrews Orchestra. An invitation will be extended to the members of the Rainbow Girls.

It was decided to hold a picnic in August. The committee will be named at the next meeting.

The group discussed the DeMolay conclave to be held in the Lord Baltimore Hotel, Baltimore, August 30 through September 1.

Trophies Awarded, Jr. C.C. Officers Are Installed

Mrs. Edward Sokolowski awarded trophies for outstanding work during the year, and Mrs. Albert D. Heacox, past president of the Woman's Civic Club, installed officers at the spring luncheon of the Junior Woman's Civic Club Saturday at the Cumberland Country Club.

Mrs. Arthur C. Crum was installed as president; Mrs. K. O. Nelson, vice president; Mrs. Charles E. Smith, Mrs. John B. White, recording and corresponding secretaries; and Mrs. George F Hazelwood Jr., treasurer.

Greetings were extended by Mrs. Edward Storm, president of the First District, who complimented the club on its safety program, community council and as having a member of the club, Mrs. Raymond Lapp, as Mrs. Maryland. Mrs. Edward W Dove, newly elected president of the Woman's Civic Club, also was a guest.

Trophies were awarded to Mrs. Nelson, ways and means chairman; Mrs. Charles Smith, "a new member who contributed most to the club during the year, serving as delegate several times and on various committees;" Mrs. Crum, fine arts chairman, who started the handcraft class; Mrs. Ralph Sell Jr., for the success in the welfare group; Mrs. Edward Mason, chairman of the men's night party and who procured the trees for north end playground; Mrs. Edward F. Mullan, for her civic work; Mrs. Glenn Brant, for the safety project; and Mrs. Marvin Kaplon for her work with the youth projects. Guests, new and retiring officers also were presented desk secretaries with the Maryland Seal.

Concluding the afternoon cards were played. Miss Louise Lippold was in charge of arrangements. Club activities will be resumed in the fall.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 heart	Pass
2 hearts	Pass	4 hearts	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: King of clubs.

Illustrating the lengths to which an astute declarer will sometimes go to acquire information before committing himself to a trump play involving a possible finesse, we offer the above hand. The bidding was routine.

West opened the king and queen of clubs, East playing the deuce and the nine. West shifted to the deuce of spades, dummy played the queen and East won with the king and returned the four. In order to fulfill contract it was necessary to dispose of the menace of the queen of trumps.

The textbook advice with nine trumps is to play for the drop, but this declarer decided to shift around a while until he could obtain more information. Some one with loose lips might talk.

The spade return was taken in dummy and a trump led to the ace, but nothing happened. The ace and king of diamonds were followed by a diamond ruff in dummy and the queen fell. Declarer now had sufficient data upon which to base his subsequent actions.

East's play of the deuce and then the nine of clubs made it clear that he had three clubs. If he had had only two he would have started to echo. It was unlikely that he had four clubs because in that case West would have had the A-K-Q alone and would not have continued with a second round of the suit when dummy showed up with the guarded jack.

While the distribution of the spades cannot be reduced to a certainty, the evidence points clearly to a 4-4 split. West, in attacking the suit, had led the deuce — apparently his fourth best — and when East won with the king, he returned the four, which also has all the earmarks of a fourth best.

East, therefore, appears to have had four spades, three clubs, three diamonds, and therefore three hearts. On this line of reasoning declarer took the heart finesse and was rewarded with a well earned game.

Territory Served By Members Of National Parks Ministry Has Its Paradoxes

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

An unusual corps of ministers is deploying today across the rugged regions of the United States.

They've got a peculiar territory to tend.

It has few residents, but it can turn up congregations of thousands. No fine churches exist there, yet no architect could match its majestic spires. It can induce reverence, but some say it also can deceive the heart.

Such are the paradoxes and prospects of the National Parks Ministry in which 125 young men and women are now taking over their assignments for the summer.

Most are seminary students. They'll do double duty.

They'll work as bellhops, maids, waitresses, clerks and garbage truck drivers, but they'll also conduct worship services, organize Sunday schools, preach, teach and lead hymns around the campfires.

"Our job," said Ronald Trank 20, Buffalo, N. Y., who'll be a handyman and also student minister at Big Bend National Park, Texas, "is to present a Christian witness. You don't need a formal church for that."

"It can be done anywhere," he added, "outdoors or in, wherever you can meet people, and place you can reach them, put a question in their minds and make them search."

Under the program, sponsored by the National Council of Churches, the summertime ministers are being stationed at inns and lodges in 26 national parks—uninhabitated realms of woodlands, mountains and game.

Roving vacationers and seasonal employes make up the religious attendance—which is large.

As for the popular idea that awe-inspiring natural settings draw men nearer to God, however, Trank said there are two sides to the matter, both helpful and misleading.

Nature's splendors, he said, may stir a keener "awareness of God's creations and supremacy" which often are sensed in cities jammed with man's creations—but "there also is a danger" of over-glorifying scenery.

"It can become a sort of pantheism—a worship of nature rather than God," he said. "Some people get so carried away by the flowers, mountains and setting sun that they lose the essence of worship.

"Actually, it's never the place that matters—it's the purpose."

The students, from 30 different seminaries and 50 colleges, represent a cross-section of denominations, 23 of them. They come from nearly every state in the country.

Territory Served By Members Of National Parks Ministry Has Its Paradoxes

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

An unusual corps of ministers is deploying today across the rugged regions of the United States.

They've got a peculiar territory to tend.

It has few residents, but it can turn up congregations of thousands. No fine churches exist there, yet no architect could match its majestic spires. It can induce reverence, but some say it also can deceive the heart.

Such are the paradoxes and prospects of the National Parks Ministry in which 125 young men and women are now taking over their assignments for the summer.

Most are seminary students. They'll do double duty.

They'll work as bellhops, maids, waitresses, clerks and garbage truck drivers, but they'll also conduct worship services, organize Sunday schools, preach, teach and lead hymns around the campfires.

"Our job," said Ronald Trank 20, Buffalo, N. Y., who'll be a handyman and also student minister at Big Bend National Park, Texas, "is to present a Christian witness. You don't need a formal church for that."

"It can be done anywhere," he added, "outdoors or in, wherever you can meet people, and place you can reach them, put a question in their minds and make them search."

Under the program, sponsored by the National Council of Churches, the summertime ministers are being stationed at inns and lodges in 26 national parks—uninhabitated realms of woodlands, mountains and game.

Roving vacationers and seasonal employes make up the religious attendance—which is large.

As for the popular idea that awe-inspiring natural settings draw men nearer to God, however, Trank said there are two sides to the matter, both helpful and misleading.

Nature's splendors, he said, may stir a keener "awareness of God's creations and supremacy" which often are sensed in cities jammed with man's creations—but "there also is a danger" of over-glorifying scenery.

"It can become a sort of pantheism—a worship of nature rather than God," he said. "Some people get so carried away by the flowers, mountains and setting sun that they lose the essence of worship.

"Actually, it's never the place that matters—it's the purpose."

The students, from 30 different seminaries and 50 colleges, represent a cross-section of denominations, 23 of them. They come from nearly every state in the country.

Absence Of Leading Kremlin Personalities Causes Purge Rumors To Snowball

By THOMAS P. WHITNEY
AP Foreign News Analyst

When leading Kremlin personalities are absent over an extended period from public functions in Moscow and their absences go unexplained, then rumors of purge begin to snowball. That's what's happening right now.

Two members of the ruling Presidium of the Central Committee of the Soviet Communist party have been missing lately. They are Mikhail Suslov, second only to Nikita Khrushchev in the Central Committee's secretariat; and Nikolai Bulganin, recently demoted from premier to be chairman of the board of the state bank.

Soviet official sources have failed to tell why these two are not around.

Furthermore, even more suggestive, the Soviet censor has put into effect—for the time being at least—a clampdown on replies by American correspondents in Moscow to queries on possible changes in the Soviet leadership or related developments.

Reports have been published in the West that the former Premier Georgi Malenkov may have been executed on orders from Khrushchev.

Only a few days ago the Soviet minister of electric power stations, A. S. Pavlenko, said that Malenkov, now one of his subordinates was still running the hydroelectric power station in East Kazakhstan to which he was assigned after being booted out a year ago.

One can put together a lot of individual facts on the Moscow scene which seem to hint at Kremlin troubles and dissension. Suslov and Bulganin have been missing.

There has been a change in leadership of the Communist party's propaganda section, which used to be under Suslov's supervision. Khrushchev, in Sofia June 3, jabbed viciously at Communist theoreticians. Suslov is a theoretician.

The recent Moscow party decree rehabilitating leading Soviet composers accused of formalism in 1948 might be regarded as a swipe at Suslov, who took part in the persecution of the composers under Stalin. Further, this decree ominously wrapped up V. M. Molotov and Malenkov in a package with Lavrenty P. Beria, the executed former police chief, as persons responsible with Stalin for the music mistakes.

Marshal Georgi K. Zhukov, booted out of the Central Committee last fall, has not been heard from since that time and so far as is known has been given no new job.

Scientists estimate that twins are born once in 92 confinements.

Motorists Urged To Use Extra Care This Summer

Police Chief R. Emmett Flynn yesterday urged motorists to be extra careful during the summer months when school is not in session.

The chief noted that during the school holiday many children will be playing in the streets, riding bicycles and the like and their little minds are only on what they are doing, never thinking of the danger of the reckless driver.

Flynn said so many motorists when they strike a child tell the police that they did not see them in time to avoid striking them. They should have their cars under control at all times, especially where there are many cars parked along the curb.

Children are prone to dart out on the street after a ball or playing with another child and it is indeed a sad thing to see a child lying on the street with broken bones or perhaps a fractured skull, the chief said.

Drive as though you are looking out for your own child. The police can't be everywhere, so we take this means of reminding the good people of our city to take care, lest one of our little ones become maimed for life or perhaps meet even a worse fate.

Memorial Graduates Get Degrees

Two graduates of Memorial Hospital School of Nursing, one of whom later served as an instructor on the hospital staff, received degrees at commencement exercises Wednesday at the University of Pittsburgh.

Miss Violet E. Popp, now a medical missionary to Jordan for the Baptist Church, received a master degree in nursing education, while Mrs. Sarah Anne (Wolfe) Gardner received a bachelor of science degree in nursing education.

Miss Popp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William M. Popp, Williams Road, studied for her degree while on leave from her post in Jordan. She is expected to return to that country sometime next month.

Following her graduation from Memorial's School of Nursing, Miss Popp became a member of the staff, and one of her pupils was Mrs. Gardner.

A resident of Sykesville, Mrs. Gardner is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Lloyd Wolfe, Ellerslie. She is a native of that community and graduated from Allegany High School.

Mrs. Gardner is a member of the staff of Mt. Wilson State Hospital at Sykesville.

Nile J. Webb, son of Mrs. Nile Webb, Halfway, Md., and the late Rev. Nile Webb, received his degree in business administration June 7 at the University of Maryland.

A former resident of Cumberland, Webb was graduated from Allegany High School in 1948. He enlisted in the Navy in Cumberland and enrolled at Maryland in 1954 after serving four years in the Navy.

During his senior year he was accepted by Omicron Delta Kappa, national honorary fraternity, which is the highest award given a male student at the university.

He was also selected for membership in Delta Sigma Pi, Betta Gamma Sigma and Beta Alpha Psi. He was active in the accounting club and other business organizations on the campus.

Webb has accepted a position with Haskins and Sells, certified public accountants, in Washington.

A graduate of Fort Hill High School in 1937, Amtower attended Potomac State College before being called into the armed forces in World War II. After completing four years of service in the Army Tank Corps, he re-entered Potomac State and then transferred to Frostburg State Teachers College, where he graduated in 1952.

Amtower, who has taught mathematics at Takoma Junior High School for the past six years, has done graduate work in higher mathematics at the District of Columbia Teachers College. He plans to re-enter George Washington University this fall for additional training in personnel management and administration work.

Memorial Graduates Get Degrees

Two graduates of Memorial Hospital School of Nursing, one of whom later served as an instructor on the hospital staff, received degrees at commencement exercises Wednesday at the University of Pittsburgh.

Miss Violet E. Popp, now a medical missionary to Jordan for the Baptist Church, received a master degree in nursing education, while Mrs. Sarah Anne (Wolfe) Gardner received a bachelor of science degree in nursing education.

Miss Popp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William M. Popp, Williams Road, studied for her degree while on leave from her post in Jordan. She is expected to return to that country sometime next month.

Following her graduation from Memorial's School of Nursing, Miss Popp became a member of the staff, and one of her pupils was Mrs. Gardner.

A resident of Sykesville, Mrs. Gardner is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Lloyd Wolfe, Ellerslie. She is a native of that community and graduated from Allegany High School.

Mrs. Gardner is a member of the staff of Mt. Wilson State Hospital at Sykesville.

Large Local Delegation To Take U. Of Md. Course

There will be 92 Allegany County women who will attend the Rural Women's Short Courses at the University of Maryland from June 16 through June 21, according to Miss Mary Wise, county home demonstration agent.

Miss Wise said Allegany County has had the largest representation at the RWSC during the past 25 years and last year was second by a slight margin.

Besides the intellectual and spiritual program offered homemakers attending the course, there are quite a few events of a special nature, Miss Wise added.

The schedule for the 1,000 homemakers expected to attend the five-day "College Week for Women" is filled with 20 different classes, speakers of national importance, and devotional periods, and it is not without recreation and its social events.

This formula of education, inspiration and recreation is one of the secrets of Short Course's success over its 32-year history. That's how it's summed up by the director of this year's Short Course, Miss Margaret Oliver, home demonstration agent leader for the university's Extension Service.

Monday, June 16, registration day—gives the "students" some free time to get acquainted with the University of Maryland campus.

Tuesday—classes begin and the evening entertainment will be the Navy Band "Sea Chanters," singing stars of radio and television.

Wednesday — classes continue and in the afternoon women can choose one of three tours—Cinerama, the Mayflower, or the Mosque, Smithsonian and Natural Science museums.

Thursday—along with the classes and assemblies there'll be folk games and films for evening entertainment.

Friday—Visitor's Day will be highlighted by "graduation" followed by a tea on the Mall sponsored by the Short Course Alumni Committee. Short Course will close officially Friday, June 21.

Graduation Held By School

Johnson Heights School held graduation exercises Friday for 80 students who will enter junior high school next year.

The program opened with a processional followed by the pledge to the flag. Choral readings, "Nancy Hanks" and "Iago's Speech from Othello," were presented.

Mary Lief presented violin selections, and a song, "The Bell," was sung by the pupils. Miss Loretto McGeady, principal, introduced the graduates. Robert Nutter, music instructor at Fort Hill High School, accepted the graduates.

The school band presented several selections under the direction of Nutter. Two songs, "Alpine Song" and "Blue Bonnets," were presented and School Patrol captains, Richard Dickinson and Thomas Hamilton, were installed. Miss Grace Swanson and Nutter were accompanists for the musical numbers.

Scout Troop 80 Attends Camporee

Boy Scout Troop 80, sponsored by the Bowling Green Volunteer Fire Department, participated in the recent camporee near Moorefield, W. Va.

The Hoot Owl, Apache and Wolf patrols attended and the Hoot Owls won a blue ribbon. Their success was due primarily to the leadership of the senior patrol leader, Jimmy Shrout, and to his patrol leaders, Bill Grant, David Grove and David Arrington.

The troop arrived at the camp site Friday evening. Saturday was devoted to camp work and to courses in artificial respiration, cooking, compass reading, fire building and tent peg making. Church services were held Sunday morning and the camp ended at 2 p. m. Sunday.

Just before the camporee, David Arrington, Jimmy Shrout and Bill Aumiller passed requirements for second class. Four adult leaders who attended the camporee were W. Aumiller, J. Hodges, D. Johnson and J. Shrout. Transportation to and from the camp site was provided by parents and some troop committee members.

It is estimated that one-sixth of the rain that falls on the United States is absorbed by vegetables or sinks into the ground.

'Rebels' Given 10 Years Each For Robbery

KINGWOOD (AP) — Three men who said their desire to join the Cuban rebel forces led them to armed robbery each drew 10-year sentences Thursday in Preston County Circuit Court.

Judge Melvin Snyder imposed the sentences on Patrick Edward Patterson, 18, of Coco, Fla.; Forrest Lipscomb, 20, of Thomas, and Harry E. Voelker, 23, of McKeesport, Pa. Patterson and Lipscomb pleaded guilty to armed robbery charges and Voelker pleaded guilty to a charge of being an accessory to armed robbery.

The three men were picked up in Winchester, Va. March 31, on charges of stealing $40 and a car from David Brown of Worthington, Marion County. The three men told authorities that they were en route to join Castro's rebel forces in Cuba.

Preston County Prosecutor James T. Dailey Jr. said kidnaping charges brought against Patterson and Lipscomb in the case were not pressed because such charges usually are handled by federal authorities.

$61,000 Collected At Court House

Yesterday's state and county tax collections in the office of Tax Collector J. Wallace Close at the Court House added up to $61,000, bringing the June total to date to $430,000.

More than 90 per cent of the payments are made by check so that the collector and his deputies handle a comparatively small amount of cash. A five per cent discount is allowed for county taxes paid in June.

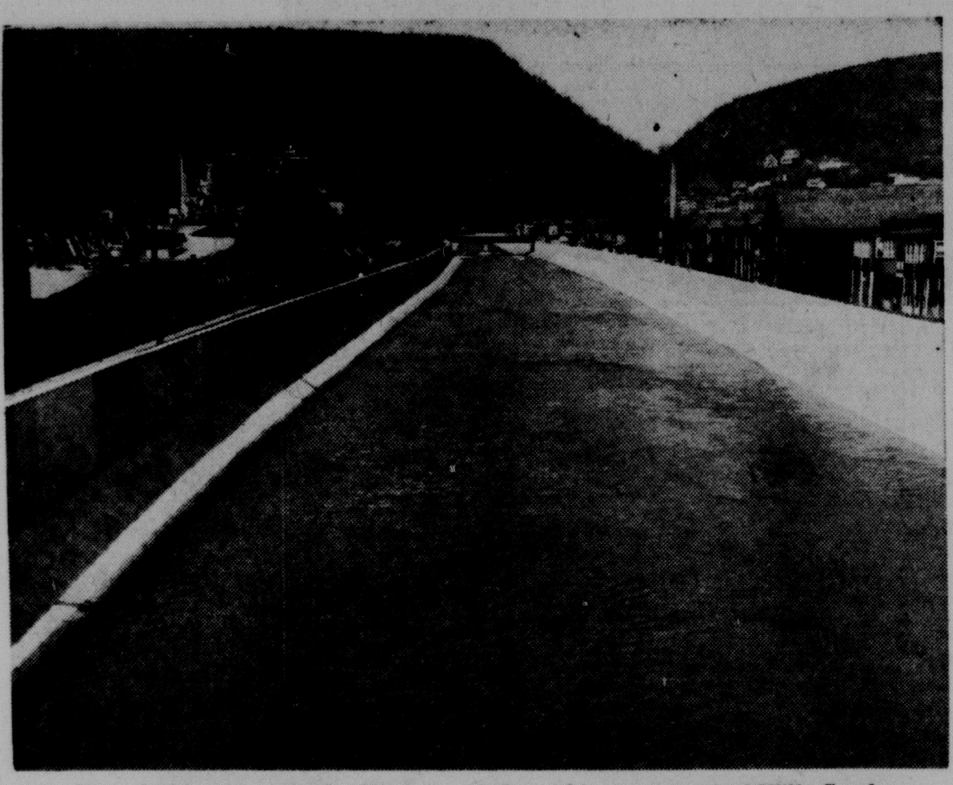
Cumberland Has Made Valuable Progress Under The Present City Administration



View, looking towards the Narrows, of channel improvement of Wills Creek

Two million dollar sewage disposal plant, situated at end of Offutt Street in South Cumberland, insures the health of present and future citizens, plus unpolluted water for industry.

These new filters at Lake Gordon have helped increase Cumberland's filtered water supply from 12 million to 18 million gallons per day.

Industrial boulevard through South Cumberland, now under construction, will open new vista for commercial sites. This is part of Crosstown Express program.

On next Tuesday, June 17, there will be a municipal General Election in Cumberland and the following list of some of the accomplishments of the City administration during the past four years is being published for the information of the voters who will participate in the election.

The photographs on this page show a few of the more important public works which a majority of the members of the present administration either commenced or took appropriate action to continue.

The City contributed $150,000.00 to the new Nurses Home at Memorial Hospital and supplied the engineering for the two new parking lots. This was done by General Obligation Bonds. The Nurses Home was necessary for the continued accreditation of the hospital.

The $2,000,000 Sewage Disposal Plant located in South Cumberland, and the $500,000 water line extension to the $35,000,000 new plant of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company at North Branch were essential to the acquisition of that plant, and without them this plant would not have come here. The sewage facilities have also given us a large section of unpolluted river frontage for further industrial development, and the new water line will produce additional revenue for the Water Department.

There is also a picture showing a small part of the million dollar improvements to the filtration plant at Lake Gordon, which after forty years of continued use, required a major overhauling, as well as an expansion, to meet the increased demands of domestic and industrial water consumers.

The Flood Control Program started in 1949, and is still continuing. 90% of this work is being paid for by the Federal Government, but it has been necessary for the City to contribute the remaining 10%, and in connection with the program the City also paid for the greatly improved new bridges at Valley Street, Market Street, Baltimore Street and the new bridge connecting Cumberland with Ridgeley.

The industrial highway through South Cumberland has already been started. This is the first phase of the Crosstown Expressway, and the City has already contributed $140,000 to that project, but the State of Maryland is contributing approximately twenty times the amount to be paid by the City. Furthermore, this whole project will furnish substantial improvement for some years, and will thus help alleviate the existing unemployment situation.

The Banneker housing project on Frederick Street was completed during the past four years, and a further housing project on Oldtown Road had been approved, and construction on it will begin this fall. The Federal Government pays for these projects, and the one on Oldtown Road will rehabilitate a two block area.

Frederick Street was paved to the City line, with the Federal Government contributing approximately one-half of the cost. This added a mile of what is now one of the most beautiful residential districts in the City, and since its inception over a hundred building permits have been issued along this street, and these new houses represent a substantial increase in the City's assessable basis.

During the past four years the innovation of having women as guards at street intersections to protect school children was started, and a policewoman has been added to the Police Department to assist in curbing juvenile delinquency. Another aid in preventing juvenile delinquency is found in the City's Recreation Program which is second to none in the State.

This administration has also fully cooperated with the merchants of Cumberland in an attempt to provide adequate off street parking, and with the impending removal of the Western Maryland Railway freight sheds on South Mechanic Street, a long step will have been taken in solving this problem.

The City has also fully cooperated with the State of Maryland in arranging for the location of a half million dollar Armory building in Cumberland, and the only cost to the City will be the acquisition of the land on which the Armory will be located. This will give us a magnificent new building and will also give the young men of Cumberland a chance to take most of their selective service training at home should they desire to do so.

In addition to the foregoing, the present administration has reconditioned the Fort Hill and Ridgedale Reservoirs, has cleaned the surface and pointed up the masonry of the Police Station and the City Hall, a necessary navigational aid in the nature of a homing device was installed at the City Airport and the Fire Department has acquired a new $26,000 pumper, which is a substantial and needed addition to the City's fire fighting equipment.

These are some of the things which have been done by the City administration during the past four years. While these things cost money, many of them were necessary, most of them represent substantial improvements which will benefit the citizens of this community for years to come, and all of them were beneficial to the citizens of Cumberland.

The foregoing things were done during the past four years and they are collected and set forth here so that all of the citizens of the City may have accurate and up-to-date information of many of the things which have been done by the present City administration for the benefit of Cumberland.

Published by authority William E. McCleary, Political Agent

Site of third low rate housing development on Oldtown Road which will rehabilitate two city blocks.

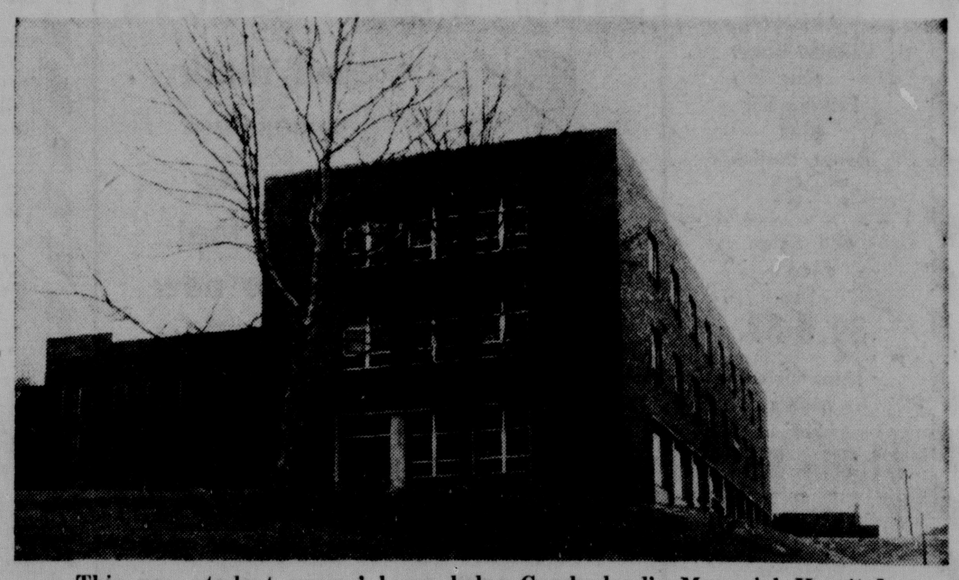
Reconditioned reservoir at Fort Hill.



This new student nurses' home helps Cumberland's Memorial Hospital remain the finest hospital in the tri-state area.

City-Rural Fight Over Highways

Another urban versus rural struggle for funds may have been set off by the new federal highway law, designed as an anti-recession measure.

The crux is that the new measure does not stipulate how an additional $400 million for road building shall be divided between primary, secondary and urban roads.

In the past, two formulas were listed in highway laws—1. States were required to match the funds on a 50-50 basis. 2. States were required to spend 45 per cent of combined funds on primary roads, 30 per cent on secondary roads, and 25 per cent on city streets.

The National Grange says, "This means that states can spend the $400 million plus their own matching funds any way they desire."

In alarm, the Grange continues, "Municipal officials have been advised that this provision of the emergency measure provides an opportunity for a marked increase in funds allocated to street and urban road construction; they have been advised to press for consideration of their needs.

"Unless rural America gets on the ball and acts immediately, it will be too late."

Well, it all depends which side of the road you live on, apparently. In the past, rurally-dominated legislatures in most states have let little of the highway user revenues, such as gasoline tax money, return to the cities. So, while the Grange and other farm organizations haul out their artillery, they should not be amazed that city officials are already firing away.

The Eaton Phenomenon

The assumption that because a man is a capitalist, he must be anti-Communist or anti-Russian is untenable. Cyrus Eaton is an American capitalist. He has made and makes his money by investments in enterprises in the United States, Canada and elsewhere. He has become a protagonist of more friendly Soviet-American relations. Naturally, that is his privilege.

But he, too often, associates his pro-Soviet attitude with intemperate statements on subjects concerning which he cannot be well-informed.

Eaton has said:

"The way to combat Communism is not by witch-hunting and wire-tapping. These police-state methods may gain momentary notoriety for the office-seeking politicians who advocate and employ them, but they offer no solution for our long-term economic problems."

To which the following questions may be asked:

1. What is the "solution for our long-term economic problems"?
2. Whose wires have been tapped and by whom?
3. What politicians employ wire-tapping and for what purpose?

Concerning the solution, it would be interesting to hear Eaton out. He may have a philosophy and he may not. The fact that a man knows how to manipulate money is not sure proof that he does or does not know anything else. I have for years read Eaton's statements on various subjects and thus far have not discovered that he is either an Adam Smith or a Karl Marx. But there is no knowing: he may have a solution up his sleeve.

Eaton wrote in "The Progressive":

"Our Mr. Dulles sometimes talks just as the Kaiser did in 1914. And when one becomes swollen with pride, one becomes arrogant and truculent and someone will take up the challenge."

Then he added:

"I feel confident Russia is not now trying to sell the United States on Communism . . ."

Now, just as a matter of accuracy, I wish Eaton would draw up parallel columns showing the similarity of the Kaiser and Dulles, that is the talk of the Kaiser in 1914 and of Dulles in 1958 or any other year Eaton might choose. It might also be interesting to compare Eaton's statement concerning Soviet Russia's efforts to sell the United States on Communism with Khrushchev's interview on the Columbia Broadcasting System's television show in which Khrushchev assured all Americans that their grandchildren would live under socialism, meaning his particular brand which is called Communism. Either Khrushchev did not know what he meant to say or Eaton did not understand what Khrushchev said. Also, Eaton might read Khrushchev's speech to the Bulgarian Communists which deals with this subject.

Whereas it was possible for Khrushchev to do this Columbia Broadcasting job of propaganda within the United States, it is still impossible for any American to speak to the Russian people. Khrushchev might, of course, justify Eaton's optimism by permitting the speech that Herbert Hoover will deliver at the Brussels Fair to be heard by the entire Soviet Universal State.

Cyrus Eaton went on Mike Wallace's television show to call the FBI a Gestapo. Does he know what the Gestapo was? Does he know what the Cheka, the NKVD were? Does he know what the MVD is? Does he know what the FBI is? Anybody can get front page notice if he is sufficiently ridiculous. The Cleveland "Plain Dealer" put it very concisely when it wrote in an editorial:

". . . We've heard of the midnight knock on the door, the arrest without warrant, the torture chamber, the forced confession, the trial without jury, the bullet in the head and so on, but we always attributed that kind of stuff to the Gestapo and the MVD. However, we must remember that Eaton was talking about his own special world, and that world bears no relation to reality."

Of course, the FBI does not operate that way and Eaton must know it, for no one has bothered him because he has become the protagonist of Soviet Russia while an American citizen. He still can say what he chooses and he is not sent to a Siberia to work out his last years mining gold. Here, actually the FBI protects him in his constitutional right to say what he chooses to say, wise or stupid, beneficial or harmful. There is the essential difference. Perhaps Eaton is so accustomed to freedom that he does not appreciate the lack of it.

Macmillan, Ike Strengthen Relations But Can't Find Solution To Problems

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—After Britain's polite, professorial Prime Minister Harold Macmillan had talked at great length to President Eisenhower this week he admitted with a wry smile to friends: "We agreed on what the problems were, but I must confess we didn't know how to solve them."

Ike and Mac got along like a couple of old-school graduates at a class reunion. The British Prime Minister was on Eisenhower's staff during the war. But between the Prime Minister and Secretary of State Dulles, the atmosphere was decidedly cooler. Here are the unpublished highlights of their talks:

1. Macmillan warned that world trade, which he regards as the west's most urgent problem, must be expanded this year or the free world may lose the economic war.

2. He urged another attempt to meet the Russians at the summit this year as evidence to the world that the western leaders at least tried. He also criticized Dulles to his face for insisting on "massive studies" before making a diplomatic move.

3. Ike and Mac weren't enthusiastic about Premier de Gaulle, the new French strongman, but agreed to withhold their judgment until they see what he does.

4. Macmillan agreed to stop British nuclear tests if the United States would "play fair" in exchanging atomic secrets. He said the British wanted some sign from Russia that she would permit atomic inspection, and added that Britain would be satisfied with less assurances than Dulles is demanding. The Prime Minister declared, in effect, that his country was willing to pay a high price for a reasonable disarmament agreement.

British Rummy

But of all the issues, Macmillan used his strongest language in describing the economic crisis. He compared world trade to a game of rummy which English children play. If one player collects too many chips and doesn't put them back into the game, he said, the game cannot go on.

He claimed that the United States and West Germany were accumulating most of the chips and must put them back into circulation in the form of foreign investments. He complained that capital cannot move today except through government institutions and expressed the hope that private enterprise can be persuaded to invest in the free world's economic future.

Macmillan made it clear, however, that Britain doesn't intend to forfeit her position in the economic game. He pointed out that the British pound is stronger today than the American dollar. He also argued that Britain has the most experience and the best machinery to function as the world's banker.

While the two English-speaking leaders may have found more problems than solutions, their conference strengthened British-American relations.

Senate "Sissies"

After casting the only vote inside the Senate Labor Committee against the compromise labor reform bill, Arizona's sharp-tongued Sen. Barry Goldwater stomped into the Senate chamber and collared GOP leader Bill Knowland.

"I never sat with such a bunch of weak-kneed sissies in my life as those Republicans on the Labor Committee," he snorted.

Who Arranged California Deal?

It's interesting how the politicos and the political soothsayers give credit for victory one day and forget credit for defeat the next. Take the California switcheroo arranged last October whereby Senator Knowland replaced Gov. Goodwin Knight as the GOP candidate for governor.

Last fall Vice President Nixon got the credit for a master stroke. Wrote astute Clint Mosher, political editor of the San Francisco Examiner, Oct. 24: "The Nixon bloc, a powerful political organization in California, tonight is attempting to persuade Gov. Knight to run for the Senate next year."

Reported the Associated Press, Nov. 2 from Sacramento under the headline "Nixon looks on Knowland as presidential aspirant," Nixon "would rather compromise with or fight a sitting Republican governor in 1960 than have a disorganized party or possible Democratic governor at home."

Last week, however, when a big majority of California voters rebelled at the GOP deal for governor, you couldn't find Nixon's name with the Link telescope. You couldn't even find his name in the agate type at the bottom of the box-score. Wrote the Examiner's same astute Clint Mosher: "The man responsible for the Democratic win is Knowland, not Nixon. The Vice President did not want the Senator splitting the party."

When it looked as if the party had struck the real Comstock lode, Dick's name was in headlines. But when the political deal didn't pay off, then it didn't matter who got thrown out of the sled on the way to St. Petersburg, just so it wasn't Nixon.

Hush-Hush Didn't Pay

It looks as if membership on the Legislative Oversight Committee is one good way not to get re-elected to Congress. Three Congressmen serving on this committee have now announced they will not run again. Two of them got into hot water with the voters because they attemped to hush up TV scandals.

They are: John Heselton of Massachusetts, who got involved in the attempt of the Boston Herald and Traveler to high-pressure the FCC for a TV channel; Joseph O'Hara of Minnesota, who consistently tried to suppress the TV investigation and whose son is on the payroll of the committee. Both are Republicans.

Charles Wolverton of New Jersey, also Republican, is retiring for age. Wolverton has had a fine record in Congress. First he was a little skeptical about the work of Dr. Bernard Schwartz, fired by Chairman Harris as counsel of the committee. But later Wolverton saw the value of the probe and has done a good job.

Public reaction to the work of both O'Hara and Heselton in Minnesota and Massachusetts was such that they were almost sure to be defeated. They bowed out.

David's District Has Many Interesting Problems

By Joseph Alsop

TIZI OUZOU, Algeria

David's District is one of the many grandiose mountain masses of this country of the Kabyles — the "free people," as the pre-Arab inhabitants of Algeria prefer to call themselves.

The mountains of the Djebel Aissa Mimoun, dun-colored at this season, surge steeply upward from the valley floor. Olive groves, fig orchards, and little parches of barley and millet cling to the mountain's flanks. And on the upmost crests, built so that each village almost defiantly occupies its own lonely crag or peak, are the tiny, white-washed, earth-built houses of the District's 10,000 to 12,000 people.

This is a region of many grim but interesting problems. For example, since the French subdued the Kabyles, the population has increased at such a fearful rate that the Kabyle land now only feeds its people for three months each year. The little villages on the mountain tops chiefly live, nowadays, by exporting labor to metropolitan France.

But from David's point of view, the most immediate problem presented by the Djebel Aissa Mimoun was its ideal character as guerilla country. He came here just about two years ago, from an assignment in Hongkong as liaison officer of the French intelligence. One of the few who were really informed about Communist China, David made a lot of newspaper friends in Hongkong. This was why he was suddenly burdened with a weekend guest, here in this remote Kabyle country.

As the jeep carried us up a kind of enlarged goat track into the mountains, David vividly described the condition of his district back in 1956. As it was a natural fortress, the Djebel had been occupied by big bands of fellaghas from the beginning of the Algerian rising. At first, a whole French battalion had been needed to fight them.

"The worst part of the job was over," David said, "when the battalion left and I moved in with a company of troops. But the rebels still had a field force of twenty men on the Djebel. The villagers paid tribute to them, and fed them, and clothed them, and kept them constantly informed about our movements. They were the real rulers. To us the villagers were a closed, absolutely closed people. The people did not speak to us, they would do no work for us. We could not even go among them, except in armed groups."

Even as the jeep wound upwards on the mountain track, it became clear that those days were over. The men working in the poor fields often waved as we passed, and the innumerable and enchanting children always stopped their roadside play to wave and smile.

At the Company Headquarters, old Assli, a veteran of the French Army and now the Mayor of the surrounding village, had drawn up his self-defense force of fifteen men, in order to show their newly-issued hunting rifles to David. In the two big lower rooms of the Company Headquarters building, school was going on. The school teachers were soldiers in uniform, whose rifles hung by the blackboard. But the hundred or so little boys and girls in the two classrooms, who had never had any other sort of school teacher, seemed to be learning their ABC's with cheerful enthusiasm all the same.

A long day's climbing around and over the Djebel Aissa Mimoun gave much more evidence of the same sort. In all the villages, French soldiers were running schools and French medics had opened infirmaries. In all villages, small self-defense forces had been formed. There were practical improvements too. One village had a new fountain which gave good water, even in the most parched weeks of summer. Another had just built itself one of the goat-track roads — a real miracle, this goat track — and had immediately invested in a communal truck.

No doubt, the old officer who has now succeeded David as Company Commander and District Officer did his very best to put the District's best foot forward. Sometimes, indeed, his eagerness carried him rather ludicrously far. But there was no doubt either that the fellagha's absolute grip on the Djebel Aissa Mimoun had now been broken. They ruled the Djebel no longer.

With voluble enthusiasm, David described how the job had been done. Oddly enough, the fellaghas owe their defeat on Djebel Aissa Mimoun to the theory of Mao Tse-Tung's, that an army must live among the people "like a fish in water." The whole process started when David moved his Company from an isolated, fortified farmhouse into the very midst of one of the hostile villages. From there, the process went by steps. Getting the people to work for the Company was the first step. The next was strengthening their confidence that the Company would protect them from the fellagha's vengeance.

A great turning point was an old man's night-time visit to give the names of the fellagha cell members who held his village in a ruthless grip. Another turning point was the destruction, in a series of sharp clashes, of the Djebel Aissa Mimoun local rebel field force. In this manner, gradually and village by village, the whole Djebel was in fact reconquered.

"It can be done everywhere," said David, who was given his promotion to Major for doing it here. One could not help wondering whether doing it "everywhere" in troubled Algeria might not strain the supply of men of David's character as well as the French Army's supply of ordinary manpower. But David's District was a striking exhibit all the same.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

I was married 28 years ago today . . .

She was 20. I was 22. She was a Wall Street secretary. I was a cub reporter on The Daily Mirror. My salary was $25. Hers was $31. I married her for her money.

Elinor Dunning was a graduate of St. John's School and St. Dominick's Academy — both in Jersey City—and that gave her an edge on me because, after primary school, I attended a secretarial school and then got a job. She was as pretty as a hillside full of daffodils and as sensitive as nitroglycerine.

As a wedding present to each other, we borrowed $300 from Morris Plan. We rented an apartment for $68 a month at 145 Kensington Avenue. The furniture came from Ludwig Bauman and it was our luck to get seven silver candy dishes among the wedding presents.

The day was clear and warm. I went to a barber and said: "Give me a close shave and no funny cracks." He shaved so close that he took the top three layers of skin too. The man who rented the suit had one that fitted me in width, but in length it was for John Wayne. No one saw my hands for the rest of that day.

My brother-in-law, Edgar Parmelee, was an usher. He rented a suit, but couldn't find a belt so he arrived at St. John's Church on the Boulevard with a strand of twine holding his pants up. My best man looked composed, but he smelled like a Chinese mandarin named Shen Lee.

The bride was having fidgets up until the bell. She wore old ivory satin and tulle, and a large horsehair hat. "Her slippers and hose," wrote the society reporter for the Jersey Journal, "matched her gown. She wore a simple string of pearls . . ."

We couldn't afford anything but the simplest. The bridesmaid was Grace Corrigan, classmate and fellow plotter, and Grace wore pink. The bride's mother wore a size 44 something and showed up panting. Elinor's father, who was the Elks Club steward, arrived scowling and went down the aisle with his only child like a spy who spurns the blindfold. In front of the altar, he got to one knee and couldn't get back up. Father Flynn waited, the soul of serenity.

The reception was at the Elks Club. The women, in their summery hats and organdy gowns, fluttered over the salads while the men got down to the serious business of opening the booze. Joe McNally sang "Oh Promise Me" and Paddy Sullivan told stories. Joe McHugh, who had a quiver in his voice, recited his own poetry and Cele Guider played the piano. Fred Grimsey sang "Remember" and "Ain't Misbehavin'."

The older generation thought that these songs were kind of racy for a wedding reception, so Fred sang the Habanera from Carmen and they were all glad to let him go back to the popular songs. I tried to find a rest room and met my father-in-law and he growled: "Your place is with your wife." I went back to the table.

The newspaper said: "After a honeymoon trip of two weeks to Washington, D. C., and a tour of the south, the young couple will be at home to their many friends . . . The bridegroom's gift to the bride was a diamond bracelet."

Well, not quite. We headed for Washington and got as far as Atlantic City. There, we found that the top had come off a bottle of Gilbey's and had run through three print dresses. And it wasn't exactly a diamond bracelet. Not quite. What I gave her was the pen with which to sign the Morris Plan note.

My mother cried. Her mother cried. No one ever told me why and I was always afraid to ask. Both women were good criers anyway and could squeeze a tear out if I said: "It's a nice day." My mother was always looking for good crying movies and, when she found one, she saw it four times.

We stopped at the Windsor Hotel on South Carolina Avenue and I signed the register "Jim Bishop." At two in the morning, the house detective knocked on the door and said: "One of you will have to leave." It took a lot of talking and $10, but we stayed.

It was like that, 28 years ago today . . .

Tots With Schizophrenia Withdraw From World

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Mrs. T. writes: "I have an 8 year old son who was believed to be mentally retarded. Since he entered a special class, two psychiatrists have found him to be emotionally disturbed — childhood schizophrenia. He is now in a state hospital receiving treatment. Can these children be treated successfully?"

Some youngsters come into the world with a normal brain and a potential for normal intelligence. But the organ does not develop because of a defect — blindness or deafness — or a psychic disorder such as schizophrenia. Several new causes of mental deficiency have been discovered in the last two decades. The list includes gargoylism and a number of metabolic disturbances involving the utilization of protein, carbohydrates, and fats.

Children with schizophrenia are helped occasionally but the majority do not respond to present methods of treatment because the condition is too firmly entrenched. Some are so emotionally disturbed from the start they end up mentally retarded. The two abnormalities are so much alike, frequently they cannot be distinguished until the youngster is older.

Tots with schizophrenia withdraw from the world about them during the first two years of life. They have a normal brain but become so self-absorbed in objects — instead of people — they do not learn; their natural endowment of gray matter is masked or prevented from maturing.

Dr. Leo Kanner, professor of Child Psychiatry at Johns Hopkins School of Medicine, says these children often come from intelligent and economically secure parents. The home is comfortable but the tyke is reared in "an emotional refrigerator." He receives little attention, fondling, and cuddling. Unless the parents defrost themselves, the youngster with a tendency toward schizophrenia does not learn to talk, won't respond when spoken to, and has temper tantrums when interrupted. The majority are content to do the same thing day after day and occasionally do it well.

When the disturbance is detected early, many respond to affectionate stimulation and reenter the world to make a satisfactory adjustment. Some deteriorate, more so when placed in an institution and allowed to vegetate.

REACTION TO BLOOD

W. J. writes: What is meant by a transfusion reaction?

REPLY

The individual receiving blood may react with fever or hives. If the blood is incompatible, more severe reactions might occur; the patient goes into shock and the kidneys become completely blocked. This emergency does not occur with careful matching and cross-matching of the blood of the donor and the transfused person.

NASAL POLYPS

C. E. writes: Is it better to have polyps in the nose cut out or injected with cortisone?

REPLY

Many specialists believe removal is easier and more effective in the long run. The hormone may shrink the polyps but this effect is only temporary. In addition, the drug has some undesirable side effects. Regardless of the method of treatment, the original cause should not be neglected.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed Telephone inquiries not accepted Dr Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Joke current in Madison Avenue advertising agencies: An account executive was told to provide an exhaustive study about fleas. He laboriously trained a medium-sized flea to jump over his finger every time he said "Hup." Then he pulled off two of the flea's six legs. "Hup," he grunted. The flea jumped over his finger. Off came two more legs. "Hup," repeated the executive. Again the flea jumped. Then he pulled off the flea's last two legs. Alas, the flea no longer moved. The executive nodded sagely, and wrote in his report, "When a flea loses all six of its legs, it becomes deaf."

3. Ike and Mac weren't enthusiastic about Premier de Gaulle, the new French strongman, but agreed to withhold their judgment until they see what he does.

4. Macmillan agreed to stop British nuclear tests if the United States would "play fair" in exchanging atomic secrets. He said the British wanted some sign from Russia that she would permit atomic inspection, and added that Britain would be satisfied with less assurances than Dulles is demanding. The Prime Minister declared, in effect, that his country was willing to pay a high price for a reasonable disarmament agreement.

British Rummy

But of all the issues, Macmillan used his strongest language in describing the economic crisis. He compared world trade to a game of rummy which English children play. If one player collects too many chips and doesn't put them back into the game, he said, the game cannot go on.

He claimed that the United States and West Germany were accumulating most of the chips and must put them back into circulation in the form of foreign investments. He complained that capital cannot move today except through government institutions and expressed the hope that private enterprise can be persuaded to invest in the free world's economic future.

Macmillan made it clear, however, that Britain doesn't intend to forfeit her position in the economic game. He pointed out that the British pound is stronger today than the American dollar. He also argued that Britain has the most experience and the best machinery to function as the world's banker.

While the two English-speaking leaders may have found more problems than solutions, their conference strengthened British-American relations.

Senate "Sissies"

After casting the only vote inside the Senate Labor Committee against the compromise labor reform bill, Arizona's sharp-tongued Sen. Barry Goldwater stomped into the Senate chamber and collared GOP leader Bill Knowland.

"I never sat with such a bunch of weak-kneed sissies in my life as those Republicans on the Labor Committee," he snorted.

Who Arranged California Deal?

It's interesting how the politicos and the political soothsayers give credit for victory one day and forget credit for defeat the next. Take the California switcheroo arranged last October whereby Senator Knowland replaced Gov. Goodwin Knight as the GOP candidate for governor.

Last fall Vice President Nixon got the credit for . . master stroke. Wrote astute Clint Mosher, political editor of the San Francisco Examiner, Oct. 24: "The Nixon bloc, a powerful political organization in California, tonight is attempting to persuade Gov. Knight to run for the Senate next year."

Reported the Associated Press, Nov. 2 from Sacramento under the headline "Nixon looks on Knowland as presidential aspirant," Nixon "would rather compromise with or fight a sitting Republican governor in 1960 than have a disorganized party or possible Democratic governor at home."

Last week, however, when a big majority of California voters rebelled at the GOP deal for governor, you couldn't find Nixon's name with the Link telescope. You couldn't even find his name in the agate type at the bottom of the box-score. Wrote the Examiner's same astute Clint Mosher: "The man responsible for the Democratic win is Knowland, not Nixon. The Vice President did not want the Senator splitting the party."

When it looked as if the party had struck the real Comstock lode, Dick's name was in headlines. But when the political deal didn't pay off, then it didn't matter who got thrown out of the sled on the way to St. Petersburg, just so it wasn't Nixon.

Hush-Hush Didn't Pay

It looks as if membership on the Legislative Oversight Committee is one good way not to get re-elected to Congress. Three Congressmen serving on this committee have now announced they will not run again. Two of them got into hot water with the voters because they attemped to hush up TV scandals.

They are: John Heselton of Massachusetts, who got involved in the attempt of the Boston Herald and Traveler to high-pressure the FCC for a TV channel; Joseph O'Hara of Minnesota, who consistently tried to suppress the TV investigation and whose son is on the payroll of the committee. Both are Republicans.

Charles Wolverton of New Jersey, also Republican, is retiring for age. Wolverton has had a fine record in Congress. First he was a little skeptical about the work of Dr. Bernard Schwartz, fired by Chairman Harris as counsel of the committee. But later Wolverton saw the value of the probe and has done a good job.

Public reaction to the work of both O'Hara and Heselton in Minnesota and Massachusetts was such that they were almost sure to be defeated. They bowed out.

David's District Has Many Interesting Problems

By Joseph Alsop

TIZI OUZOU, Algeria

David's District is one of the many grandiose mountain masses of this country of the Kabyles — the "free people," as the pre-Arab inhabitants of Algeria prefer to call themselves.

The mountains of the Djebel Aissa Mimoun, dun-colored at this season, surge steeply upward from the valley floor. Olive groves, fig orchards, and little parches of barley and millet cling to the mountain's flanks. And on the upmost crests, built so that each village almost defiantly occupies its own lonely crag or peak, are the tiny, white-washed, earth-built houses of the District's 10,000 to 12,000 people.

This is a region of many grim but interesting problems. For example, since the French subdued the Kabyles, the population has increased at such a fearful rate that the Kabyle land now only feeds its people for three months each year. The little villages on the mountain tops chiefly live, nowadays, by exporting labor to metropolitan France.

But from David's point of view, the most immediate problem presented by the Djebel Aissa Mimoun was its ideal character as guerilla country. He came here just about two years ago, from an assignment in Hongkong as liaison officer of the French intelligence. One of the few who were really informed about Communist China, David made a lot of newspaper friends in Hongkong. This was why he was suddenly burdened with a weekend guest, here in this remote Kabyle country.

As the jeep carried us up a kind of enlarged goat track into the mountains, David vividly described the condition of his district back in 1956. As it was a natural fortress, the Djebel had been occupied by big bands of fellaghas from the beginning of the Algerian rising. At first, a whole French battalion had been needed to fight them.

"The worst part of the job was over," David said, "when the battalion left and I moved in with a company of troops. But the rebels still had a field force of twenty men on the Djebel. The villagers paid tribute to them, and fed them, and clothed them, and kept them constantly informed about our movements. They were the real rulers. To us the villagers were a closed, absolutely closed people. The people did not speak to us, they would do no work for us. We could not even go among them, except in armed groups."

Even as the jeep wound upwards on the mountain track, it became clear that those days were over. The men working in the poor fields often waved as we passed, and the innumerable and enchanting children always stopped their roadside play to wave and smile.

At the Company Headquarters, old Assli, a veteran of the French Army and now the Mayor of the surrounding village, had drawn up his self-defense force of fifteen men, in order to show their newly-issued hunting rifles to David. In the two big lower rooms of the Company Headquarters building, school was going on. The school teachers were soldiers in uniform, whose rifles hung by the blackboard. But the hundred or so little boys and girls in the two classrooms, who had never had any other sort of school teacher, seemed to be learning their ABC's with cheerful enthusiasm all the same.

A long day's climbing around and over the Djebel Aissa Mimoun gave much more evidence of the same sort. In all the villages, French soldiers were running schools and French medics had opened infirmaries. In all villages, small self-defense forces had been formed. There were practical improvements too. One village had a new fountain which gave good water, even in the most parched weeks of summer. Another had just built itself one of the goat-track roads — a real miracle, this goat track — and had immediately invested in a communal truck.

No doubt, the old officer who has now succeeded David as Company Commander and District Officer did his very best to put the District's best foot forward. Sometimes, indeed, his eagerness carried him rather ludicrously far. But there was no doubt either that the fellagha's absolute grip on the Djebel Aissa Mimoun had now been broken. They ruled the Djebel no longer.

With voluble enthusiasm, David described how the job had been done. Oddly enough, the fellaghas owe their defeat on Djebel Aissa Mimoun to the theory of Mao Tse-Tung's, that an army must live among the people "like a fish in water." The whole process started when David moved his Company from an isolated, fortified farmhouse into the very midst of one of the hostile villages. From there, the process went by steps. Getting the people to work for the Company was the first step. The next was strengthening their confidence that the Company would protect them from the fellagha's vengeance.

A great turning point was an old man's night-time visit to give the names of the fellagha cell members who held his village in a ruthless grip. Another turning point was the destruction, in a series of sharp clashes, of the Djebel Aissa Mimoun local rebel field force. In this manner, gradually and village by village, the whole Djebel was in fact reconquered.

"It can be done everywhere," said David, who was given his promotion to Major for doing it here. One could not help wondering whether doing it "everywhere" in troubled Algeria might not strain the supply of men of David's character as well as the French Army's supply of ordinary manpower. But David's District was a striking exhibit all the same.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

I was married 28 years ago today . . .

She was 20. I was 22. She was a Wall Street secretary. I was a cub reporter on The Daily Mirror. My salary was $25. Hers was $31. I married her for her money.

Elinor Dunning was a graduate of St. John's School and St. Dominick's Academy — both in Jersey City—and that gave her an edge on me because, after primary school, I attended a secretarial school and then got a job. She was as pretty as a hillside full of daffodils and as sensitive as nitroglycerine.

As a wedding present to each other, we borrowed $300 from Morris Plan. We rented an apartment for $68 a month at 145 Kensington Avenue. The furniture came from Ludwig Bauman and it was our luck to get seven silver candy dishes among the wedding presents.

The day was clear and warm. I went to a barber and said: "Give me a close shave and no funny cracks." He shaved so close that he took the top three layers of skin too. The man who rented the suit had one that fitted me in width, but in length it was for John Wayne. No one saw my hands for the rest of that day.

My brother-in-law, Edgar Parmelee, was an usher. He rented a suit, but couldn't find a belt so he arrived at St. John's Church on the Boulevard with a strand of twine holding his pants up. My best man looked composed, but he smelled like a Chinese mandarin named Shen Lee.

The bride was having fidgets up until the bell. She wore old ivory satin and tulle, and a large horsehair hat. "Her slippers and hose," wrote the society reporter for the Jersey Journal, "matched her gown. She wore a simple string of pearls . . ."

We couldn't afford anything but the simplest. The bridesmaid was Grace Corrigan, classmate and fellow plotter, and Grace wore pink. The bride's mother wore a size 44 something and showed up panting. Elinor's father, who was the Elks Club steward, arrived scowling and went down the aisle with his only child like a spy who spurns the blindfold. In front of the altar, he got to one knee and couldn't get back up. Father Flynn waited, the soul of serenity.

The reception was at the Elks Club. The women, in their summery hats and organdy gowns, fluttered over the salads while the men got down to the serious business of opening the booze. Joe McNally sang "Oh Promise Me" and Paddy Sullivan told stories. Joe McHugh, who had a quiver in his voice, recited his own poetry and Cele Guider played the piano. Fred Grimsey sang "Remember" and "Ain't Misbehavin'."

The older generation thought that these songs were kind of racy for a wedding reception, so Fred sang the Habanera from Carmen and they were all glad to let him go back to the popular songs. I tried to find a rest room and met my father-in-law and he growled: "Your place is with your wife." I went back to the table.

The newspaper said: "After a honeymoon trip of two weeks to Washington, D. C., and a tour of the south, the young couple will be at home to their many friends . . . The bridegroom's gift to the bride was a diamond bracelet."

Well, not quite. We headed for Washington and got as far as Atlantic City. There, we found that the top had come off a bottle of Gilbey's and had run through three print dresses. And it wasn't exactly a diamond bracelet. Not quite. What I gave her was the pen with which to sign the Morris Plan note.

My mother cried. Her mother cried. No one ever told me why and I was always afraid to ask. Both women were good criers anyway and could squeeze a tear out if I said: "It's a nice day." My mother was always looking for good crying movies and, when she found one, she saw it four times.

We stopped at the Windsor Hotel on South Carolina Avenue and I signed the register "Jim Bishop." At two in the morning, the house detective knocked on the door and said: "One of you will have to leave." It took a lot of talking and $10, but we stayed.

It was like that, 28 years ago today . . .

Tots With Schizophrenia Withdraw From World

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Mrs. T. writes: "I have an 8 year old son who was believed to be mentally retarded. Since he entered a special class, two psychiatrists have found him to be emotionally disturbed — childhood schizophrenia. He is now in a state hospital receiving treatment. Can these children be treated successfully?"

Some youngsters come into the world with a normal brain and a potential for normal intelligence. But the organ does not develop because of a defect — blindness or deafness — or a psychic disorder such as schizophrenia. Several new causes of mental deficiency have been discovered in the last two decades. The list includes gargoylism and a number of metabolic disturbances involving the utilization of protein, carbohydrates, and fats.

Children with schizophrenia are helped occasionally but the majority do not respond to present methods of treatment because the condition is too firmly entrenched. Some are so emotionally disturbed from the start they end up mentally retarded. The two abnormalities are so much alike, frequently they cannot be distinguished until the youngster is older.

Tots with schizophrenia withdraw from the world about them during the first two years of life. They have a normal brain but become so self-absorbed in objects — instead of people — they do not learn; their natural endowment of gray matter is masked or prevented from maturing.

Dr. Leo Kanner, professor of Child Psychiatry at Johns Hopkins School of Medicine, says these children often come from intelligent and economically secure parents. The home is comfortable but the tyke is reared in "an emotional refrigerator." He receives little attention, fondling, and cuddling. Unless the parents defrost themselves, the youngster with a tendency toward schizophrenia does not learn to talk, won't respond when spoken to, and has temper tantrums when interrupted. The majority are content to do the same thing day after day and occasionally do it well.

When the disturbance is detected early, many respond to affectionate stimulation and reenter the world to make a satisfactory adjustment. Some deteriorate, more so when placed in an institution and allowed to vegetate.

REACTION TO BLOOD

W. J. writes: What is meant by a transfusion reaction?

REPLY

The individual receiving blood may react with fever or hives. If the blood is incompatible, more severe reactions might occur; the patient goes into shock and the kidneys become completely blocked. This emergency does not occur with careful matching and cross-matching of the blood of the donor and the transfused person.

NASAL POLYPS

C. E. writes: Is it better to have polyps in the nose cut out or injected with cortisone?

REPLY

Many specialists believe removal is easier and more effective in the long run. The hormone may shrink the polyps but this effect is only temporary. In addition, the drug has some undesirable side effects. Regardless of the method of treatment, the original cause should not be neglected.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed Telephone inquiries not accepted Dr Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

Joke current in Madison Avenue advertising agencies: An account executive was told to provide an exhaustive study about fleas. He laboriously trained a medium-sized flea to jump over his finger every time he said "Hup." Then he pulled off two of the flea's six legs. "Hup," he grunted. The flea jumped over his finger. Off came two more legs. "Hup," repeated the executive. Again the flea jumped. Then he pulled off the flea's last two legs. Alas, the flea no longer moved. The executive nodded sagely, and wrote in his report, "When a flea loses all six of its legs, it becomes deaf."

A one-hit pitching performance by Bill Thompson, knuckleball artist of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, snapped the seven-game winning string of the first place V. F. W. team in a Rocking Chair Softball League game yesterday at Fort Hill Field. The score was 6-0.

It was the first loss of the season for the Vets.

The only hit yielded by Thompson was a single by "Pete" Elliott in the second inning.

Pittsburgh Plate in reeling off its third straight victory nicked the offerings of Glenn Kauffman and Charley Day for ten safeties, four of which were shared by Sam Brady and Perk Robinette.

The Elks moved within 1½ games of the leaders by nosing out Ritter's A. C., in a 10-inning battle at East Side by the score of 5-4.

Singles by Keyser and Manges and "Pooch" Orndorff's sacrifice put runners on second and third in the 10th. After Underdonk flied out, Klavuhn hit to short and Keyser was cut down at the plate. Ritter, however, in an attempt to catch Manges going to third base threw wildly and the latter scored the winning run.

Dick Klavuhn notched his 5th win against one loss for the Elks.

Bob Keyser paced the winners at the plate with three hits in five trips while Roy Manges and "Pooch" Orndorff collected two hits each. Slugger Morgan obtained three of Ritter's 11 safeties.

Al Sheetz hurled a four-hitter as the Knights of Columbus beat Celanese on the latter's field by the score of 8-0.

The Caseys racked up 11 hits, including a triple and single by Mickey Clark, a double and single by George Geatz and a pair of base knocks by "Chug" Aman. Scores:

One stroke back of the three leaders at 72 came Lloyd Mangrum, 46, of Apple Valley, Calif., and Frank Stranahan of Toledo, Ohio.

Tied at 73, just two strokes off the pace, were 22-year-old Bruce Crampton of Australia and Jimmy Demaret of Kiamesha Lake, N. Y.

Barrelville Takes 8th In Row; Eagles, Tri-State Triumph

Barrelville extended its winning streak to eight games by whipping the LaVale Maroons in a Pen-Mar Little League game yesterday at LaVale by the score of 5-2.

The win gave the league leaders an 8-2 record.

Ralph Wilson went the route for the winners, scattered six hits and struck out 12.

The defending champs garnered 10 hits including homers by K. Kennell, B. Barth and Wilson, three singles by Gary Barb and two safeties by E. Struntz. Dave Merrill blasted two triples and a single for the Maroons.

Cresaptown's Eagles stayed on the heels of the leaders with a 7-3 record by beating Ellerslie, 6-3.

Steve "Speedy" Vandenburg, the Eagles' southpaw, gave up only three hits and mowed down 14 on strikes to notch his fourth win of the campaign.

A one-hit pitching performance by Bill Thompson, knuckleball artist of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, snapped the seven-game winning string of the first place V. F. W. team in a Rocking Chair Softball League game yesterday at Fort Hill Field. The score was 6-0.

It was the first loss of the season for the Vets.

The only hit yielded by Thompson was a single by "Pete" Elliott in the second inning.

Pittsburgh Plate in reeling off its third straight victory nicked the offerings of Glenn Kauffman and Charley Day for ten safeties, four of which were shared by Sam Brady and Perk Robinette.

The Elks moved within 1½ games of the leaders by nosing out Ritter's A. C., in a 10-inning battle at East Side by the score of 5-4.

Singles by Keyser and Manges and "Pooch" Orndorff's sacrifice put runners on second and third in the 10th. After Underdonk flied out, Klavuhn hit to short and Keyser was cut down at the plate. Ritter, however, in an attempt to catch Manges going to third base threw wildly and the latter scored the winning run.

Dick Klavuhn notched his 5th win against one loss for the Elks.

Bob Keyser paced the winners at the plate with three hits in five trips while Roy Manges and "Pooch" Orndorff collected two hits each. Slugger Morgan obtained three of Ritter's 11 safeties.

Al Sheetz hurled a four-hitter as the Knights of Columbus beat Celanese on the latter's field by the score of 8-0.

The Caseys racked up 11 hits, including a triple and single by Mickey Clark, a double and single by George Geatz and a pair of base knocks by "Chug" Aman. Scores:

Tribe Obtains Billy Hunter

NEW YORK (AP) — Energetic Frank Lane, racing against Sunday night's major league trading deadline, obtained Billy Hunter from the Kansas City Athletics Thursday in another attempt to bolster the Cleveland Indians' infield defense.

Hunter, a steady fielder at second, short and third but a weak hitter, was told of the deal after slamming a triple and double and driving in two runs in Kansas City's 4-1 afternoon victory over the New York Yankees.

Two Clubs May Sponsor Sports Car Hill Climb

Western Maryland, Altoona Groups To Meet Tonight

The possibility of sponsoring another sports car hill climb on Breakneck Road will be discussed tonight at a meeting of the Western Maryland Sports Car Club at 8 o'clock at the Sports Car Motor Sales, McMullen Highway.

Dr. William S. Firey, president of the local club, said representatives of the Altoona, Pa., Sports Car Club will meet with the Western Maryland group to discuss joint sponsorship of the hill climb for the benefit of the Flintstone Volunteer Fire Company.

The Flintstone firemen benefitted from several hill climbs on the picturesque road on the west side of Martin's Mountain. Last year, however, there was no hill climb.

Trophies will be presented to the winning drivers and navigators of the May rally. The first place trophy will go to Philip and Doris Blocher. The second place trophy will be awarded to Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Weaver.

Three films will be shown at tonight's meeting. They are entitled "European Motor Racing," "The Indianapolis 500" and "The Grand Prix."

Raydon Hurls 2-Hitter, Bucs Whip Giants, 2-1

Rookie Wins First Major League Game

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Pittsburgh's slim righthanded rookie Curt Raydon hurled a two hitter Thursday for his first major league victory as the Pirates edged the San Francisco Giants 2-1, sweeping their three game series.

A crowd of 9,273 watched the 6 foot-4 Raydon limit the Giants to a pair of singles by Daryl Spencer and Orlando Cepeda, while a lapse of control by San Francisco's bonus hurler Paul Giel and an error by Willie Mays provided the Pirates' two tallies.

The slumping Giants, who dropped out of first place Wednesday, thus lost their twelfth game in the last 16 and their fifth straight.

Defeat dropped the Giants one and a half games behind the National League-leading Milwaukee Braves, who nipped the Chicago Cubs 5-4.

Braves Beat Chicago, 5-4

Crandall's Single Wins Game In 8th

CHICAGO (AP) — Milwaukee's first-place Braves made four errors and Lew Burdette became their 10th straight starting pitching failure Thursday, but the Braves were able to turn an eighth inning rally into a 5-4 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

Humberto Robinson, last of three pitchers, became the winner when catcher Del Crandall singled Johnny Logan across with the winning run in the eighth. It was Robinson's first win. He had lost two previously.

Moe Drabowsky drew the loss, his sixth against four victories.

Logan opened the eighth with a single and rode to second on Harry Hanebrink's sacrifice. Then Crandall delivered the tide-turning hit, his second run-making safety of the game.

Braves Beat Chicago, 5-4

Crandall's Single Wins Game In 8th

CHICAGO (AP) — Milwaukee's first-place Braves made four errors and Lew Burdette became their 10th straight starting pitching failure Thursday, but the Braves were able to turn an eighth inning rally into a 5-4 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

Humberto Robinson, last of three pitchers, became the winner when catcher Del Crandall singled Johnny Logan across with the winning run in the eighth. It was Robinson's first win. He had lost two previously.

Moe Drabowsky drew the loss, his sixth against four victories.

Logan opened the eighth with a single and rode to second on Harry Hanebrink's sacrifice. Then Crandall delivered the tide-turning hit, his second run-making safety of the game.

Snyder was brought here last night for an emergency operation. He died Thursday night at 9:15 p. m. (EDT), a hospital spokesman said.

The 25-year-old rider, who lived in Charles Tow , was aboard Stubble in the third race when he went down, along with William Balzaretti of Chester, Pa., who was aboard Right Man.

Balzaretti is in Charles Town Hospital with a back injury. His condition is satisfactory.

Snyder was born in Vincennes, Ind. Surviving him are his wife Jean and two sons, Steve, 5, and Bryan, 16 months.

Snyder was a Marine corps veteran who had been riding on the Maryland-West Virginia circuit about five years.

Ice Cream Makes Perfect Summer Party Dessert

Ice cream has come to the rescue of the busy hostess with menu planning problems. When a special party meal calls for a light yet elegant dessert, today's homemaker has but to reach in her freezer for the answer. And she has such an array of flavors from which to choose. She may decide to serve America's favorite dessert unadorned. Or she may use her imagination in creating an unusual sundae. For the hostess with glamorous ideas, ice cream may be turned into a sophisticated party pie.

A buttery crumb crust makes the best base for an ice cream pie; either graham cracker or cooky crumbs may be used. To make this Pink Party Pie strawberry ice cream was piled into the crust in petal-like layers. A strawberry-rhubarb sauce is ready to be ladled over each wedge as it is served. Here's a dual purpose dessert, fancy enough to stand alone, yet light enough to follow a heavy meal.

Pink Party Pie

1½ cups finely crushed butter cooky crumbs
½ cup butter, melted
1 quart strawberry ice cream
Strawberry-rhubarb sauce

Put cooky crumbs through coarse sieve or roll with rolling pin until fine; measure. Add butter gradually using a wire dough blender or fingers to blend thoroughly. Press firmly into bottom and sides of a 9-inch pie plate, forming an edge at the top. Chill thoroughly. Fill with slightly softened ice cream. Return to freezer until firm. Cut in wedges and serve with strawberry-rhubarb sauce. Makes 1 9-inch pie or 6-8 servings.

Strawberry Rhubarb Sauce

2 tablespoons cornstarch
⅔ cup sugar
Dash of salt
1 cup rhubarb sauce juice and strawberry juice
Red vegetable color, if desired
1 cup drained cooked and sweetened rhubarb
½ cup sliced fresh or drained defrosted frozen strawberries

Mix together cornstarch, sugar and salt in saucepan. Stir in fruit juice. Place over low heat and cook, stirring, until mixture is clear and has thickened. Tint to the desired shade of pink with red vegetable coloring, if desired. Blend in fruit and cool mixture, stirring several times during cooling. Serve over strawberry ice cream pie.

Quick Scallopine For Summer Dining

For that one hot dish in your menu planning, serve beef scallopine, made quick and easy with canned beef gravy. Here's how it goes: Cut 1 pound round steak into thin strips. Brown well in 2 tablespoons shortening. Add 1 can (4 ounces) sliced mushrooms and brown quickly. Stir in 1 can (10¾ ounces) beef gravy, ½ cup grated Parmesan cheese, and a dash of black pepper. Cover, simmer about 15 minutes, or until beef is tender. Serve with hot cooked rice to 6.

Ice Cream Makes Perfect Summer Party Dessert

Ice cream has come to the rescue of the busy hostess with menu planning problems. When a special party meal calls for a light yet elegant dessert, today's homemaker has but to reach in her freezer for the answer. And she has such an array of flavors from which to choose. She may decide to serve America's favorite dessert unadorned. Or she may use her imagination in creating an unusual sundae. For the hostess with glamorous ideas, ice cream may be turned into a sophisticated party pie.

A buttery crumb crust makes the best base for an ice cream pie; either graham cracker or cooky crumbs may be used. To make this Pink Party Pie strawberry ice cream was piled into the crust in petal-like layers. A strawberry-rhubarb sauce is ready to be ladled over each wedge as it is served. Here's a dual purpose dessert, fancy enough to stand alone, yet light enough to follow a heavy meal.

Pink Party Pie

1½ cups finely crushed butter cooky crumbs
½ cup butter, melted
1 quart strawberry ice cream
Strawberry-rhubarb sauce

Put cooky crumbs through coarse sieve or roll with rolling pin until fine; measure. Add butter gradually using a wire dough blender or fingers to blend thoroughly. Press firmly into bottom and sides of a 9-inch pie plate, forming an edge at the top. Chill thoroughly. Fill with slightly softened ice cream. Return to freezer until firm. Cut in wedges and serve with strawberry-rhubarb sauce. Makes 1 9-inch pie or 6-8 servings.

Strawberry Rhubarb Sauce

2 tablespoons cornstarch
⅔ cup sugar
Dash of salt
1 cup rhubarb sauce juice and strawberry juice
Red vegetable color, if desired
1 cup drained cooked and sweetened rhubarb
½ cup sliced fresh or drained defrosted frozen strawberries

Mix together cornstarch, sugar and salt in saucepan. Stir in fruit juice. Place over low heat and cook, stirring, until mixture is clear and has thickened. Tint to the desired shade of pink with red vegetable coloring, if desired. Blend in fruit and cool mixture, stirring several times during cooling. Serve over strawberry ice cream pie.

Quick Scallopine For Summer Dining

For that one hot dish in your menu planning, serve beef scallopine, made quick and easy with canned beef gravy. Here's how it goes: Cut 1 pound round steak into thin strips. Brown well in 2 tablespoons shortening. Add 1 can (4 ounces) sliced mushrooms and brown quickly. Stir in 1 can (10¾ ounces) beef gravy, ½ cup grated Parmesan cheese, and a dash of black pepper. Cover, simmer about 15 minutes, or until beef is tender. Serve with hot cooked rice to 6.

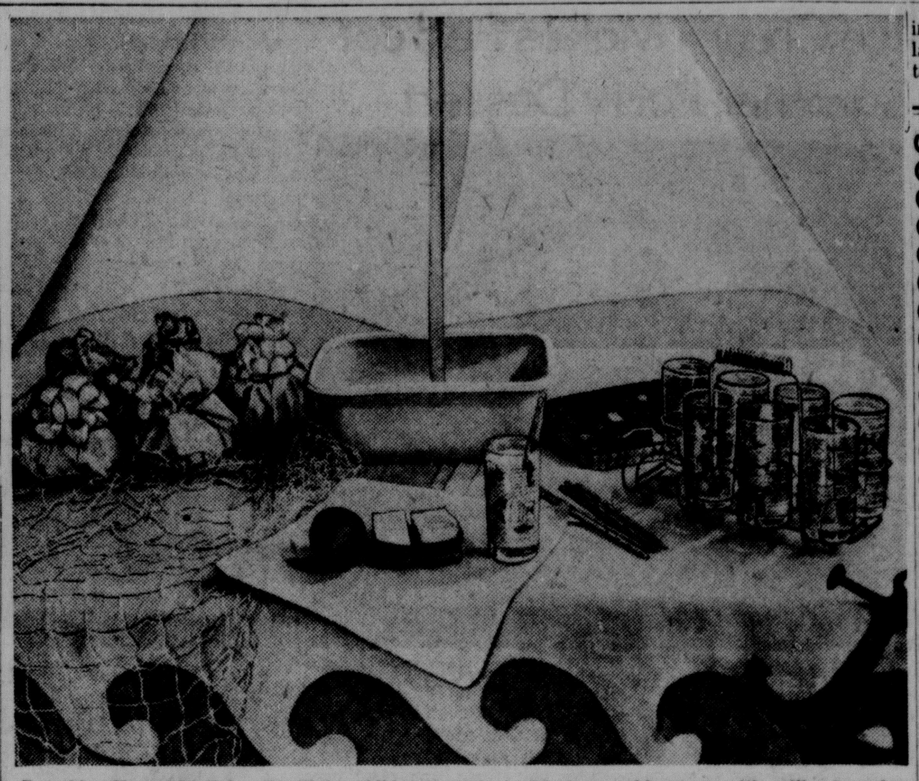
It is almost impossible to obtain the calcium you need for strong teeth and bones unless you get some milk each day. For children, at least 3 to 4 cups a day are recommended, for teenagers at least 4 cups, and for adults at least 2 cups.

There are around 250,000 workers employed in processing and delivering dairy products.



Try this "Happy Birthday Boat" for children's party in 7-to-9-year-old group, with sailboat made easily according to directions in accompanying article. Suggested "chow" for young sailors consists of individually wrapped sandwich and apple, with flavored milk. Variations for other age groups are suggested . . . all under an overall nautical theme which fits in so well with summer activities.

'Birthday Boat' For Tot's Summer Party

Best day of the year for the young set is THE BIRTHDAY . . . no doubt about that.

It's a day when mothers, too, want to see everything done just right. Most often that is a matter of having the right kind of party, the right kind of activities and the right kind of decorations and favors — according to the participant's age group.

Here are some suggestions for birthday parties during the summer months for various age groups. They are based on findings of child-development experts —with the 7-to-9-year-old group used as an illustration. Variations on the same theme for other age groups are also suggested.

Required Activity

The 7-to-9'ers require energy-using activities and competitive play. They enjoy imaginative decorations and themes. With that in mind, a perfect combination of these elements is a "Birthday Boat" party (which would be called "Anchors Aweigh" for older children).

First the decorations: Turn the party table into a sailboat. This is done by making a mast (nail a pole to a small wooden platform) and placing it in a large container, such as a dish pan or bucket. Secure the mast with a cord or rope tied at the top and running both sides down under the table. Cut sails from heavy wrapping paper and tack one edge to the mast, taping the other edge to the rope.

Cut "waves" from green construction paper and pin them to the edge of the tablecloth. And as the final nautical touch, cut out a cardboard anchor and pin it to the side of the boat.

Simple Menu

For 7-to-9's the luncheon menu should be kept simple. Ham or egg salad sandwiches and an apple — wrapped in a napkin and tied with a bow—are good "chow" for young sailors. Wrap the rations in a fishnet, and when it's time for "chow-down," untie the fishnet and drape it over the table. Flavored milk is best for a beverage, and an unopened box of candy on the table provides an energy pickup. Save the birthday cake for later in the program, as explained below.

At this age, a three-hour party starting at 11 a. m. is best. It should include plenty of active events, outdoors if possible, such as races, treasure-hunts and the like.

Guest List

The guest list, including the young guest of honor, should be made up of an even number so that equal sides can be chosen for the games. It's a good idea too, to confine the guests to the same sex—children of this age don't see too much in the opposite sex.

After an initial hour of outdoor games following the present-opening period, the luncheon should last about 30 minutes. Then should come a rest period of about 15 minutes, followed by a return outdoors with the less strenuous games scheduled.

The final event could be a quiet "snack time," with a cool drink served. This is the time for the birthday cake, with candles arranged in the shape of an anchor. Or, here's another idea . . . serve cupcakes, each with a candle on top, to each guest—and let them all blow them out simultaneously!

5 To 7 Group

For the younger group, 5-to-7, use the same setting as a serving table, seating the youngsters at a separate table. For them, a fancy cake should be served as a finale to the lunch. Sandwiches are good here, too, but they might be more of the peanut butter-and-jelly type. It's a good idea to mix the sexes at this age, but less strenuous, non-competitive activities should be conducted indoors. The whole party should be limited to an hour-and-a-half.

10 And 11-Year-Olds

For 10 and 11-year-olds, the same decor and "chow" as for the next younger group would be suitable. The activities must be more sophisticated, of course —with, perhaps, each guest bringing his favorite record and the last portion of the party devoted to a juvenile jam session.

Regardless of the age, however, one of the most important ingredients of a successful birthday party is an overall theme running through the activities, decorations and food and refreshments. Try the "Birthday Boat" for the younger set . . . it's a sure bet for a "bon voyage."

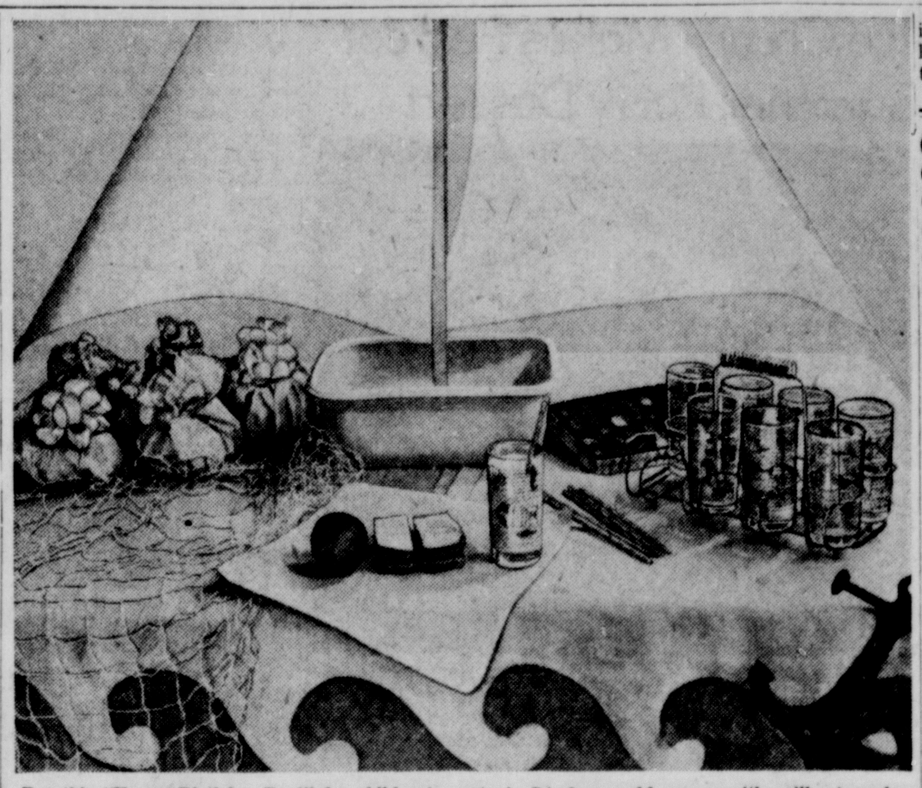
It is almost impossible to obtain the calcium you need for strong teeth and bones unless you get some milk each day. For children, at least 3 to 4 cups a day are recommended, for teenagers at least 4 cups, and for adults at least 2 cups.

There are around 250,000 workers employed in processing and delivering dairy products.



Try this "Happy Birthday Boat" for children's party in 7-to-9-year-old group, with sailboat made easily according to directions in accompanying article. Suggested "chow" for young sailors consists of individually wrapped sandwich and apple, with flavored milk. Variations for other age groups are suggested . . . all under an overall nautical theme which fits in so well with summer activities.

'Birthday Boat' For Tot's Summer Party

Best day of the year for the young set is THE BIRTHDAY . . . no doubt about that.

It's a day when mothers, too, want to see everything done just right. Most often that is a matter of having the right kind of party, the right kind of activities and the right kind of decorations and favors — according to the participant's age group.

Here are some suggestions for birthday parties during the summer months for various age groups. They are based on findings of child-development experts —with the 7-to-9-year-old group used as an illustration. Variations on the same theme for other age groups are also suggested.

Required Activity

The 7-to-9'ers require energy-using activities and competitive play. They enjoy imaginative decorations and themes. With that in mind, a perfect combination of these elements is a "Birthday Boat" party (which would be called "Anchors Aweigh" for older children).

First the decorations: Turn the party table into a sailboat. This is done by making a mast (nail a pole to a small wooden platform) and placing it in a large container, such as a dish pan or bucket. Secure the mast with a cord or rope tied at the top and running both sides down under the table. Cut sails from heavy wrapping paper and tack one edge to the mast, taping the other edge to the rope.

Cut "waves" from green construction paper and pin them to the edge of the tablecloth. And as the final nautical touch, cut out a cardboard anchor and pin it to the side of the boat.

Simple Menu

For 7-to-9's the luncheon menu should be kept simple. Ham or egg salad sandwiches and an apple — wrapped in a napkin and tied with a bow—are good "chow" for young sailors. Wrap the rations in a fishnet, and when it's time for "chow-down," untie the fishnet and drape it over the table. Flavored milk is best for a beverage, and an unopened box of candy on the table provides an energy pickup. Save the birthday cake for later in the program, as explained below.

At this age, a three-hour party starting at 11 a. m. is best. It should include plenty of active events, outdoors if possible, such as races, treasure-hunts and the like.

Guest List

The guest list, including the young guest of honor, should be made up of an even number so that equal sides can be chosen for the games. It's a good idea too, to confine the guests to the same sex—children of this age don't see too much in the opposite sex.

After an initial hour of outdoor games following the present-opening period, the luncheon should last about 30 minutes. Then should come a rest period of about 15 minutes, followed by a return outdoors with the less strenuous games scheduled.

The final event could be a quiet "snack time," with a cool drink served. This is the time for the birthday cake, with candles arranged in the shape of an anchor. Or, here's another idea . . . serve cupcakes, each with a candle on top, to each guest—and let them all blow them out simultaneously!

5 To 7 Group

For the younger group, 5-to-7, use the same setting as a serving table, seating the youngsters at a separate table. For them, a fancy cake should be served as a finale to the lunch. Sandwiches are good here, too, but they might be more of the peanut butter-and-jelly type. It's a good idea to mix the sexes at this age, but less strenuous, non-competitive activities should be conducted indoors. The whole party should be limited to an hour-and-a-half.

10 And 11-Year-Olds

For 10 and 11-year-olds, the same decor and "chow" as for the next younger group would be suitable. The activities must be more sophisticated, of course —with, perhaps, each guest bringing his favorite record and the last portion of the party devoted to a juvenile jam session.

Regardless of the age, however, one of the most important ingredients of a successful birthday party is an overall theme running through the activities, decorations and food and refreshments. Try the "Birthday Boat" for the younger set . . . it's a sure bet for a "bon voyage."

Open Face Sandwiches

"Hey, Mom, we're hungry." That's the call from the out-of-schoolers in summer. Be prepared with sandwich makings, which will bring pleasant surprises, like this one: Place a slice of cheese on each slice of bread. Arrange on a baking sheet and broil until cheese melts. Meanwhile, heat 1 can (10¾ ounces) spaghetti sauce with meat. Pour over sandwiches and serve to 4 with long cool glasses of milk.

Enough milk is produced annually in America to fill a river 3,286 miles long, 40 feet wide, and 3 feet deep.

Use Beef Pot Roast As A Budget-Stretcher

A budget-stretching beef pot roast, fork tender and tasty, is a wise choice for the big meal of the day. Served with fluffy calico dumplings, the family will never know this is a penny-watching meal.

Even though the meat requires long, slow cooking with moist heat for maximum tenderness and eating enjoyment, the pot roast of beef is a timesaver too. The meat may be browned, seasoned and put into the oven to cook early in the afternoon. There's no pot-roast-watching so the homemaker is freed for other activities.

Either the blade bone or a round bone chuck roast is a good choice for pot roasting. Buying a brand name known for high quality assures the greatest value for your meat dollar. Figure on at least one-half pound of meat per person when you make your purchase. For added economy remember that a slightly larger roast allows "planned-overs" to use the following day.

Beef Pot Roast With Calico Dumplings

- 3 pound chuck roast
- 1 cup flour
- 2 teaspoons salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 3 tablespoons fat
- 1 cup water

Coat roast with flour and seasonings. Melt fat in heavy skillet. Brown roast on all sides. Sprinkle with any remaining seasoned flour. Add 1 cup water. Slip a low rack under the meat. Cover tightly. Cook over low heat for 3 hours or until fork-tender. Remove from the broth and keep hot.

Add enough water to the drippings in the kettle to make 4 cups total. Bring to a boil. Gradually stir 1 cup cold water into ½ cup flour to make a smooth mixture. Stir into boiling liquid. Cook, stirring constantly, until gravy thickens. Prepare Calico Dumplings.

CALICO DUMPLINGS: Sift together 2 cups sifted flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, and 1 teaspoon salt. Cut in 2 tablespoons shortening. Add ¾ cup milk and 1 cup chopped cooked beets to the dry mixture. Stir just until combined to make a very soft dough. Dip a tablespoon into the bubbling gravy, then dip up a spoonful of the dough and slip it off into the gravy. Cover tightly and cook over low heat 15 minutes. Do not uncover. Place pot roast on a hot platter. Surround with dumplings.

Canned Pork & Beans

Cans of pork and beans with tomato suace are a real boon to the kitchen keeper. Mom, dad and the kids always go for a body-building plate of tasty pork and beans. Try this recipe Combine 1 can (1 pound) pork and beans with tomato sauce, ½ to 1 teaspoon prepared horseradish, 1 teaspoon prepared mustard, and 1 teaspoon dry minced onion in a saucepan. Heat thoroughly, and serve with a salad to 2 to 3 hungry ones.

Knockouts at cook-outs:

BOLOGNA-CHEESE BUNS

1½ cups (½ lb.) diced bologna
¼ cup diced sharp American cheese
¼ cup pickle relish
3 tablespoons mayonnaise
1½ teaspoons Sterling Salt
½ teaspoon dry mustard
6 to 8 buttered frankfurter buns

Combine first six ingredients and fill frankfurter buns with mixture. Wrap each bun in aluminum foil. Heat over a grill. Or bake in slow oven (325° F.) about 30 minutes, or until piping-hot.

Any dish has extra zest, extra flavor richness when cooked and seasoned with Sterling Salt!

STERLING SALT brings out the best in food!

Be prepared with sandwich makings, which will bring pleasant surprises, like this one: Place a slice of cheese on each slice of bread. Arrange on a baking sheet and broil until cheese melts. Meanwhile, heat 1 can (10¾ ounces) spaghetti sauce with meat. Pour over sandwiches and serve to 4 with long cool glasses of milk.

Enough milk is produced annually in America to fill a river 3,286 miles long, 40 feet wide, and 3 feet deep.

Use Beef Pot Roast As A Budget-Stretcher

A budget-stretching beef pot roast, fork tender and tasty, is a wise choice for the big meal of the day. Served with fluffy calico dumplings, the family will never know this is a penny-watching meal.

Even though the meat requires long, slow cooking with moist heat for maximum tenderness and eating enjoyment, the pot roast of beef is a timesaver too. The meat may be browned, seasoned and put into the oven to cook early in the afternoon. There's no pot-roast-watching so the homemaker is freed for other activities.

Either the blade bone or a round bone chuck roast is a good choice for pot roasting. Buying a brand name known for high quality assures the greatest value for your meat dollar. Figure on at least one-half pound of meat per person when you make your purchase. For added economy remember that a slightly larger roast allows "planned-overs" to use the following day.

Beef Pot Roast With Calico Dumplings

- 3 pound chuck roast
- 1 cup flour
- 2 teaspoons salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 3 tablespoons fat
- 1 cup water

Coat roast with flour and seasonings. Melt fat in heavy skillet. Brown roast on all sides. Sprinkle with any remaining seasoned flour. Add 1 cup water. Slip a low rack under the meat. Cover tightly. Cook over low heat for 3 hours or until fork-tender. Remove from the broth and keep hot.

Add enough water to the drippings in the kettle to make 4 cups total. Bring to a boil. Gradually stir 1 cup cold water into ½ cup flour to make a smooth mixture. Stir into boiling liquid. Cook, stirring constantly, until gravy thickens. Prepare Calico Dumplings.

CALICO DUMPLINGS: Sift together 2 cups sifted flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, and 1 teaspoon salt. Cut in 2 tablespoons shortening. Add ¾ cup milk and 1 cup chopped cooked beets to the dry mixture. Stir just until combined to make a very soft dough. Dip a tablespoon into the bubbling gravy, then dip up a spoonful of the dough and slip it off into the gravy. Cover tightly and cook over low heat 15 minutes. Do not uncover. Place pot roast on a hot platter. Surround with dumplings.

Canned Pork & Beans

Cans of pork and beans with tomato suace are a real boon to the kitchen keeper. Mom, dad and the kids always go for a body-building plate of tasty pork and beans. Try this recipe Combine 1 can (1 pound) pork and beans with tomato sauce, ½ to 1 teaspoon prepared horseradish, 1 teaspoon prepared mustard, and 1 teaspoon dry minced onion in a saucepan. Heat thoroughly, and serve with a salad to 2 to 3 hungry ones.

Knockouts at cook-outs:

BOLOGNA-CHEESE BUNS

1½ cups (½ lb.) diced bologna
¾ cup diced sharp American cheese
¼ cup pickle relish
3 tablespoons mayonnaise
1½ teaspoons Sterling Salt
½ teaspoon dry mustard
6 to 8 buttered frankfurter buns

Combine first six ingredients and fill frankfurter buns with mixture. Wrap each bun in aluminum foil. Heat over a grill. Or bake in slow oven (325° F.) about 30 minutes, or until piping-hot.

Any dish has extra zest, extra flavor richness when cooked and seasoned with Sterling Salt!

On The Line

by Bob Considine

NEW YORK—I (the lowest form of sentence-beginning) am now an employe of a brand new news gathering and feature enterprise named the Hearst Headline Service.

Please pardon a personal note or two, but a newspaper stiff of my type doesn't change affiliations very many times in his life. Not that this is much more than a change of credit line, as it is called. I've been with the Hearst people 25 years. First it was with the Washington Herald, during a period when the paper was leased from Hearst by the late mercurial Cissie Patterson. Then the N. Y. American, the N. Y. Mirror after the American was merged with the Journal, then International News Service from 1943 until that grand old service became the "I" in UPI a couple of weeks ago. Now it's HHS. The capital letters seem odd, the first time they appear on the paper in your mill. They'll come naturally, soon, like the year-date on checks after about the first week or so of a new year.

There's been a need, it seems to me, for a service that doesn't conflict with the big wires but at the same time can move knowingly around a fast-breaking story and throw more light on the people involved. Seems to me, also, that there's room always for the big-game-hunting interview such as Bill Hearst and assorted associates have been tracking down in recent years.

News become more difficult to comprehend, at first blush, at least, as life itself is clouded with ifs. The language of the income tax blank is, somehow, more and more the gobbledegook by which we live. The breath-taking sparring between the U. S. and the Soviet Union, with the decision always in the balance, must make the reader—over whose head a thermonuclear Sword of Damocles waves—wonder just where the devil he stands. The investor must now look first to see what defense cuts are being made before he looks at his tables. The federal government has permeated every cell of our daily lvies.

And often it speaks an English that needs second—and third-day translation, once the spot news has been spurted by radio, TV and the wires.

These and many other things will occupy the minds and legs of the nucleus of a world wide staff that W. R. Hearst Jr. has put together. It is a solid feeling to be with a team that already has Louella Parsons, Ruth Montgomery and Phyllis Battelle, and Pierre Huss, Fran Conniff, Jim Bishop, Leslie Gould, Serge Fliegers, John Casserly, Jack O'Brian, Cholly Knickerbocker, and Sam Shulsky. As for being on the same side with Bill Corum, where else do you go when you're with the Yanks, especially the Boy Major of the Yankee Division? There will be others in the weeks, months and years to come, some better than all of us perhaps, but he/she won't pitch in there any harder than the above.

Improvements of resurfacing the streets of the town of Luke amounting to $7,000 are being completed by the Cumberland Contracting Company, according to Mayor J. Edward Duckworth. One of the major projects shown above is widening Grant Street as it enters into Mullen Avenue at the top of the hill. Refuse Truck Damages Four Frostburg Cars

FROSTBURG—Four cars were struck on East Main Street near noon when a side lift on a truck used to haul refuse and dead animals, came loose as the driver headed west.

The lift on the truck swings out from the side and is used to lift heavy loads into the truck. When not in use it swings back to the side where it is secured.

According to Gerald Paige, the driver, he had picked up a load in Eckhart and was passing through Frostburg when the crane swung to the side and hit the cars owned by Robert Wilson, East Main Street; George Wilson, Hill Street; Carmel Pinto, Grant Street and James Spitznas, East College Avenue, in that order. The first three cars suffered minor damage, however, the left rear fender of the Spitznas car was badly damaged.

Lonaconing Volunteers To Resume Work On Community Swimming Pool

Health Officials Investigate; Offer No Objections

LONACONING—The group of volunteers who have been working on the community swimming pool project here, will resume their operations Saturday, and according to Calvin James, secretary, volunteers are needed to help with the work.

The project in the Charlestown area had been halted following some complaints that the new swimming pool might create a health hazard.

State Department of Health officials made a routine inspection, Mr. James said, and found no particular health hazards. They offered several suggestions which will be followed in the interest of general public safety he noted.

Some of the complaints came from persons who were of the opinion that raw sewage is dumped into the stream where the old reservoir is being renovated into a swimming pool. The officials found that some six or seven families live along the stream above the old reservoir, but all houses are at least 75 to 100 yards away from the stream and all have septic tanks. Any sewage going into the stream is therefore filtered seepage and there appears to be no contamination. James said the water is pure and comes from a clean mountain stream.

The health department is taking no action to disapprove the project, he noted, and townspeople are now ready to proceed with the completion of the pool.

On Saturday, a sluice box will be built to drain the dam if and when necessary. Work will be started on repairing the old stone reservoir wall, additional areas will be cleared, and other work will be resumed. James suggests that volunteers bring shovels, hoes, rakes, axes and carpenter tools.

He also noted that a number of organizations and individuals are promising funds and benefits to aid the project. The group sponsoring the community pool is known as The Lonaconing Swimming Pool Association.

Luke Improves, Widens Town's Streets

Improvements of resurfacing the streets of the town of Luke amounting to $7,000 are being completed by the Cumberland Contracting Company, according to Mayor J. Edward Duckworth. One of the major projects shown above is widening Grant Street as it enters into Mullen Avenue at the top of the hill. The sharp turn to the right is being widened eight feet by cutting away part of the hillside to the right and relocating the fence on the left. Grant street runs from Pratt Street to Mullen Avenue. Other improvements include resurfacing Fairview Street completely and blacktopping 200 feet of Lee Street. Other places where necessary have been patched.

Refuse Truck Damages Four Frostburg Cars

FROSTBURG—Four cars were struck on East Main Street near noon when a side lift on a truck used to haul refuse and dead animals, came loose as the driver headed west.

The lift on the truck swings out from the side and is used to lift heavy loads into the truck. When not in use it swings back to the side where it is secured.

According to Gerald Paige, the driver, he had picked up a load in Eckhart and was passing through Frostburg when the crane swung to the side and hit the cars owned by Robert Wilson, East Main Street; George Wilson, Hill Street; Carmel Pinto, Grant Street and James Spitznas, East College Avenue, in that order. The first three cars suffered minor damage, however, the left rear fender of the Spitznas car was badly damaged.

Chief of Police Lloyd Truly and Patrolman James Buckalew investigated the accident.

Health Officials Investigate; Offer No Objections

LONACONING—The group of volunteers who have been working on the community swimming pool project here, will resume their operations Saturday, and according to Calvin James, secretary, volunteers are needed to help with the work.

The project in the Charlestown area had been halted following some complaints that the new swimming pool might create a health hazard.

State Department of Health officials made a routine inspection, Mr. James said, and found no particular health hazards. They offered several suggestions which will be followed in the interest of general public safety he noted.

Some of the complaints came from persons who were of the opinion that raw sewage is dumped into the stream where the old reservoir is being renovated into a swimming pool. The officials found that some six or seven families live along the stream above the old reservoir, but all houses are at least 75 to 100 yards away from the stream and all have septic tanks. Any sewage going into the stream is therefore filtered seepage and there appears to be no contamination. James said the water is pure and comes from a clean mountain stream.

The health department is taking no action to disapprove the project, he noted, and townspeople are now ready to proceed with the completion of the pool.

On Saturday, a sluice box will be built to drain the dam if and when necessary. Work will be started on repairing the old stone reservoir wall, additional areas will be cleared, and other work will be resumed. James suggests that volunteers bring shovels, hoes, rakes, axes and carpenter tools.

He also noted that a number of organizations and individuals are promising funds and benefits to aid the project. The group sponsoring the community pool is known as The Lonaconing Swimming Pool Association.

Japanese Cars In U.S.

TOKYO (AP)—Japan makes its first bid to crack the American car market this week. The Toyota Motor Co. said 30 four-passenger, 55-h.p. Toyopet Crown sedans will be unloaded at Los Angeles for sale in California. A second lot of 150 will follow next month. The price will be about $2,000.

Pulp Mill Planned

HALIFAX, N. S. (AP)—Premier Roderick Stanfield reports a Swedish pulp mill company may build a 40-million-dollar plant in the Canso area. It depends, he said, on whether Nova Scotia pulpwood proves satisfactory for processes of the company, Stora Kopparberg's.

Perfect Timing

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Scottish Rite Temple in Baltimore has an intricate burglar alarm consisting of bells and electric eyes.

However, police said the building's maintenance man reported he forgot to set the alarm over the weekend.

Thieves got in and took $2,773 worth of jeweled hats, fezzes, watches and badges willed to the temple by deceased members.

Touring Folk Singers

IBAGUE, Columbia (AP) — A chorus of 87 Colombian folklore singers is flying to Miami June 16 for a six-week tour of the United States.

Shapelines For Legs Must Be Knee-High

Every inch that skirts shorten brings more reason than ever to sit pretty—erect, knees together, with the legs crossed no higher than the ankles.

But don't ignore an accumulation of fat at the inner knee in any case. It may be there because you've let a job that keeps you seated all day cause the area to lose firmness — correct the pose that flattens this area against the chair edge and you'll also help to correct faulty circulation as well as the increasing bulge. Then set to work at once to slim and firm your knees with these spot reducing exercises:

1. Stand with your feet together and, by tightening thigh and calf muscles, pull your kneecaps upward 20 times. Relax them between good hard pulls.

2. Slap those fatty bulges together gently as you sit on the edge of a chair, enough times to set the flesh tingling.

3. Do the bicycle riding routine, but on your side instead of with your legs in the air. With every slow rotation of the legs, let the inside of the knees brush together. One leg always keeps in contact with the floor, and for one minute stay on one side, then roll over and repeat action lying on the other side for a minute longer.

Exercise like this sounds too easy, and is too easy to do any good unless you stick with it for a reasonable length of time. But it does the trick and pays a dividend, too. That strengthening of the knee muscles that you'll feel in a week or so contributes to the ease and grace of your walk.

The market was higher in an active opening when a number of big blocks were traded. It became sluggish for a while and then the oils began to resume their strides of Wednesday. Oil equipment manufacturers also made sizable gains. Selected stocks among the aircrafts, chemicals, rubbers, tobaccos, motion pictures and drugs performed well.

The leading copper issues backed away rather sharply from recent gains but other base metals went forward. Rails were ragged, some showing respectable gains, others dropping fractions.

The Associated Press average of 60 stock rose 70 cents to its new 1958 peak of $173.10, topping the previous high of $172.60 reached June 6.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (AP) — Traders in grain futures still were of the opinion Thursday that this is not the time to sell wheat and corn short and they took another hitch at buying back their commitments or extending long positions.

Their reasoning came off additional reports of a possible major grasshopper plague over much of the Midwest and that recent rains have been so heavy in some areas that considerable corn has been flooded and replanting is necessary.

Wheat closed ¼-1⅛ cents a bushel higher, July $1.86⅛; corn unchanged to ⅜ higher, July $1.31 7/8-32; oats ⅛-¾ lower, July 61⅝-¾; rye ¼-½ lower, July $1.29-28½; soybeans ⅛ lower to ⅜ higher, July $2.27⅝-½; lard 10 cents a hundred pounds higher to 5 cents lower.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — When Bing Crosby returns from that fishing expedition in Alaska, he's going to find that his Kathy has been working at Columbia Studio.

To call her by her professional name Kathryn Grant — she is the "voice" of the princess in the magoo cartoon "Arabian Nights." When she was first asked to speak the lines, Kathy said "no," but it was explained that all she had to do was sit on a stool to say the lines, and that it wouldn't take longer than a week. Being an actress Kathy couldn't resist. If it were difficult she wouldn't do it, but she misses Bing, so she accepted.

Joan Weldon is back from New York where she auditioned for "The Music Man." She said, "I am so excited I just had to call and tell you what happened. I sang for Meredith Wilson, the composer, and Morton da Costa, the director, and I was no more off the stage than they told me the job was mine. Kermit Bloomgarten, the producer, was in the hospital so couldn't hear me sing.

"I go into rehearsals July 28th, and I call this the best break I've had," Joan added excitedly.

Among my social mail this week was an announcement of affectionate interest to me: Mr. and Mrs. Clark Gable announce the marriage of their personal maid Louise Jones to Lee Washington on Sunday, June 15th, at Church of Divine Guidance, Los Angeles.

Louise, a fine Negro woman, is a well known figure in movie star homes. She came here from Baltimore, Maryland, where she had long been with the Howard family there, and joined the Bill Howard menage in Hollywood soon after he married Dorothy Lamour. She has been a valued employe of the Gables for the past few years.

Her bridegroom-to-be, Louise tells me, is a tailor daytimes and a bongo player nights. Louise is also musical, being a member of her church choir.

The greatest aggregation of comics and talented singers I've ever seen under one "tent" were gathered at Dean Martin's birthday party given by his pretty Jeannie. The worst thing that ever happened to "Uncle" Miltie Berle was when he attempted to be master of ceremonies to the continual heckling (all in good fun) of Jack Benny, Eddie Fisher, George Burns, Tony Martin, Jack Warner, Rory Calhoun and young Ricky Nelson.

When nobody would let Milton make a single point, Dean called out, "Wouldn't it be funny if you were being auditioned now?" and Jack Benny wisecracked, "After listening to all this, I've just this minute decided I'm the greatest comedian in the world."

There was no surcease from razzing, so entertainment was done away with and all went square dancing with professional callers. On the dance floor, trying their best were Marge and Gower Champion (they knew how!), Lauren Bacall, Cyd Charisse and Tony Martin, George Burns and Gracie Allen, the Alan Ladds, Mary and Jack Benny, June Allyson and Dick Powell, the William Perlbergs, Jimmy McHugh, the Sammy Cahns, Jack Extratter, Adolph Green, and Debbie Reynolds, (as cute as a button clamoring for Eddie to sing "Danny Boy.")

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Peter Finch, who is playing opposite Audrey Hepburn in "The Nun's Story," is marrying Lucienne van Overloop, Sabena Airline hostess. Finch is a close friend of Vivien Leigh and Laurence Olivier.

At Sunday luncheon with Marcelle and Hernando Courtright I met Jean Cruze, of Bordeaux, France. His family makes some of France's leading wines.

In the party were John Ryan, who has lived in Germany for seven years, and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Miller and Colonel Paul Walters. The conversation was very interesting and Monsieur Cruze has great faith in de Gaulle's ability to save France.

The Gilbert Rolands have been visiting Ramon Navarro at his ranch in lower Southern California, and all the neighboring ranchers were invited to a fiesta to meet Ramon's house guests.

That's all today.

U.N. Post For Singer?

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower is reported to be thinking about nominating Negro singer Marian Anderson as a delegate—or alternate delegate—to the United Nations General Assembly.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD — When Bing Crosby returns from that fishing expedition in Alaska, he's going to find that his Kathy has been working at Columbia Studio.

To call her by her professional name Kathryn Grant — she is the "voice" of the princess in the magoo cartoon "Arabian Nights." When she was first asked to speak the lines, Kathy said "no," but it was explained that all she had to do was sit on a stool to say the lines, and that it wouldn't take longer than a week. Being an actress Kathy couldn't resist. If it were difficult she wouldn't do it, but she misses Bing, so she accepted.

Joan Weldon is back from New York where she auditioned for "The Music Man." She said, "I am so excited I just had to call and tell you what happened. I sang for Meredith Wilson, the composer, and Morton da Costa, the director, and I was no more off the stage than they told me the job was mine. Kermit Bloomgarten, the producer, was in the hospital so couldn't hear me sing.

"I go into rehearsals July 28th, and I call this the best break I've had," Joan added excitedly.

Among my social mail this week was an announcement of affectionate interest to me: Mr. and Mrs. Clark Gable announce the marriage of their personal maid Louise Jones to Lee Washington on Sunday, June 15th, at Church of Divine Guidance, Los Angeles.

Louise, a fine Negro woman, is a well known figure in movie star homes. She came here from Baltimore, Maryland, where she had long been with the Howard family there, and joined the Bill Howard menage in Hollywood soon after he married Dorothy Lamour. She has been a valued employe of the Gables for the past few years.

Her bridegroom-to-be, Louise tells me, is a tailor daytimes and a bongo player nights. Louise is also musical, being a member of her church choir.

The greatest aggregation of comics and talented singers I've ever seen under one "tent" were gathered at Dean Martin's birthday party given by his pretty Jeannie. The worst thing that ever happened to "Uncle" Miltie Berle was when he attempted to be master of ceremonies to the continual heckling (all in good fun) of Jack Benny, Eddie Fisher, George Burns, Tony Martin, Jack Warner, Rory Calhoun and young Ricky Nelson.

When nobody would let Milton make a single point, Dean called out, "Wouldn't it be funny if you were being auditioned now?" and Jack Benny wisecracked, "After listening to all this, I've just this minute decided I'm the greatest comedian in the world."

There was no surcease from razzing, so entertainment was done away with and all went square dancing with professional callers. On the dance floor, trying their best were Marge and Gower Champion (they knew how!), Lauren Bacall, Cyd Charisse and Tony Martin, George Burns and Gracie Allen, the Alan Ladds, Mary and Jack Benny, June Allyson and Dick Powell, the William Perlbergs, Jimmy McHugh, the Sammy Cahns, Jack Extratter, Adolph Green, and Debbie Reynolds, (as cute as a button clamoring for Eddie to sing "Danny Boy.")

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Peter Finch, who is playing opposite Audrey Hepburn in "The Nun's Story," is marrying Lucienne van Overloop, Sabena Airline hostess. Finch is a close friend of Vivien Leigh and Laurence Olivier.

At Sunday luncheon with Marcelle and Hernando Courtright I met Jean Cruze, of Bordeaux, France. His family makes some of France's leading wines.

In the party were John Ryan, who has lived in Germany for seven years, and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Miller and Colonel Paul Walters. The conversation was very interesting and Monsieur Cruze has great faith in de Gaulle's ability to save France.

The Gilbert Rolands have been visiting Ramon Navarro at his ranch in lower Southern California, and all the neighboring ranchers were invited to a fiesta to meet Ramon's house guests.

That's all today.

U.N. Post For Singer?

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower is reported to be thinking about nominating Negro singer Marian Anderson as a delegate—or alternate delegate—to the United Nations General Assembly.

Firemen Put Out Blaze In Warehouse

Little Damage Done To Brick Structure

A serious downtown fire was averted yesterday afternoon when firemen were able to extinguish a third-floor blaze in the Montgomery Ward Company warehouse on Howard Street.

Alert residents phoned in the alarm at 5:39 p. m. when smoke was seen coming through an open window at the rear of the huge four-story brick structure located just off South Mechanic Street across from the Queen City Dairy.

Central's new pumper engine was called into action for the second time since being put into service along with the hook-and-ladder truck and a pumper engine from West Side Fire Station.

Blaze Caught Quickly

Firemen broke open numerous windows along the side of the building and pushed hose through a hole chopped in wire screening, built inside the structure.

The blaze was just making headway, firemen reported, when they got to it. A large hole was burned in the flooring and the plasterboard walls and the ceiling and nearby steel girders were scorched by the flames. The building was filled with dense smoke making the work difficult for firemen at first.

The damage was kept to a minimum, however, as the third floor of the building was unoccupied at the time.

Prowlers Reported

The area to which the fire was confined by the prompt work of the firemen was occupied by the Second Army Reserve some years ago.

Firemen last night said the origin of the blaze is undetermined, but city police said reports have been received of prowlers in the building from time to time.

Evidence of someone breaking into the building was found last week, police stated, when windows were broken and numerous fire extinguishers inside the building were overturned and sprayed about the premises. Walls were damaged and other acts of vandalism were noted at that time.

Firemen returned to their stations shortly after 7 p. m.

Warehouse Fire Is Extinguished

Firemen spray water on the charred embers of the floor and wall of the third floor of the Montgomery Ward Company warehouse on Howard Street after extinguishing a fire yesterday afternoon. The third floor was unoccupied at the time. The floor formerly was occupied by the Second Army Reserve. The Montgomery Ward merchandise was stored on the first floor and was damaged somewhat by water. Firemen are Chauffeur John Morrissey, Lt. William Hartung, Driver Jacob Winters and Pipeman George Lease. Firemen managed to confine damage to the area where it started.

Civil Service Board Halves 30-Day Penalty

The Cumberland Civil Service Commission has sustained one of four charges preferred by the Department of Streets and Public Property against Louis A. Rattenni, a laborer at the Sewage Treatment Plant.

In its unanimous decision, the board sustained the first charge brought by Commissioner William H. Buchholtz but reduced the 30-day suspension to 15 days.

In sustaining the first charge, the commission said the specifications could be better characterized as a continued poor attitude on the part of the employe and that as such the charge was sustained.

The charge was preferred as insubordination—and said in part "that he had on numerous occasions failed to obey reasonable orders given him by superiors without first arguing and debating the reasons for the order."

Sacred Concert Is Planned At YFC Rally Here

The Grace Ambassadors will present a program of sacred music at the Tri-State Youth for Christ Rally at 115 North Mechanic Street, Saturday at 7:45 p. m.

Members of the male quartet are Robert Messner, Ashland, Ohio; Alva Steffler, Dayton, Ohio; Charles Bearinger, Waynesboro, Pa., and James Custer, Martinsburg, W. Va.

This Saturday night has also been named "First Nighter's Night." A book, "Stranger in the Marsh" will be given to the member who has the highest number of "first-nighters" come at his invitation.

Fight Proves Expensive To Workmen

A construction crew which puts stone facing on houses yesterday paid $225 to the State's Attorney here to pay medical expenses incurred by a Cumberland man who was assaulted by a member of the crew Tuesday night.

County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya said yesterday that Raymond T. Brandy, 35, of Pittsburgh, Pa., paid the costs of repairs to denture plates and eyeglasses which were broken in the scuffle with James E. Kelly, 539 Patterson Avenue.

Mr. Kelly also sustained severe cuts of the face and nose in the fight which occurred about 11 p.m. Tuesday following a minor traffic accident.

A car driven by Mr. Brandy collided with one operated by Mr. Kelly as the latter attempted to turn off Greene Street onto South Allegany Street.

An argument ensued and Mr. Kelly was struck in the face by Lawrence Stokes, 31, a member of the construction crew who was with Mr. Brandy and another man at the time. Also slightly hurt in the melee, which brought City Police to the scene, was Mr. Kelly's son, Pat.

Police charged both Mr. Brandy and Mr. Kelly with motor vehicle violations which later were dismissed in Trial Magistrates Court. They also charged Mr. Stokes with being drunk and disturbing the peace. The latter paid a $25 fine in Police Court the next day.

Investigator Lilya said assault warrants were sworn out against the Pittsburgh man but the charges were not pressed by the authorities when the construction workers agreed to pay medical expenses for the injured Cumberland man.

Officers Clarence Valentine and James Swann investigated for City Police.

Building Trades Unions To Get 15-Cent Raise

Workers in the building trades will get increases of 15 cents an hour, beginning July 1, according to Harry L. Hickle, president of the Cumberland Building and Construction Trades Council.

He said the increase was gained in peaceful negotiations between building craft unions and area contractors.

All of the contracts, he said, will call for 7½ cents an hour health and welfare payments. Funds are paid to the Construction Industry Insurance Fund of Western Maryland, set up in 1956 to protect workers against hardships resulting from sickness, accident and death.

Current rates range from $1.95 an hour for laborers to $3.65 for shovel operators.

Unions affiliated with the council include the teamsters, carpenters, cement finishers, laborers, iron workers and operating engineers locals.

Friends Aware Swim Class To Start

Children of Friends Aware are starting weekly swim classes under the sponsorship of the Opti-Mrs. Club. The first class will be held June 18 at 10:30 a. m. in Constitution Park Pool.

Gene Mason, city rec director, is offering the Recreation Department personnel and equipment. Anyone wishing more information may call Mrs. Leo Barkman, PA 2-1638, or Charles Statler, PA 4-3108.

Times-News Not Endorsing Questionnaire

The Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce submitted Wednesday night a list of six questions to the 10 candidates whose names will appear on the city election ballot Tuesday.

A letter addressed to the candidates stated "We need your replies no later than noon Saturday, June 14."

The letter also declared: "The cooperation of the newspapers has been assured."

Yesterday a spokesman for the Times-News said neither the Cumberland Evening Times, the Sunday Times nor The Cumberland News has submitted a written list of questions to the candidates.

The spokesman also explained the Times-News has made no commitment to publish the answers to questions submitted by the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce and has no intention of doing so.

Harold Scott Gets McCoole Principalship

Harold Lee Scott of Flintstone, who has been principal of Piney Plains School the last six years, yesterday was named by Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster as the new principal of McCoole Elementary School.

Mr. Scott, who is 28, will succeed Paul M. Arbogast, 742 Baker Street, who was named principal of Johnson Heights Elementary School as successor to Miss Loretto McGeady, who is retiring.

At Piney Plains, the county's eastern-most school, Mr. Scott taught the fifth and sixth grades as the head of a three-teacher school. At McCoole the principalship is full-time and there are eight classroom teachers.

A native of Vale Summit, the new McCoole principal was graduated from Beall High School, Frostburg, in 1947 and from Frostburg State Teachers College in 1952, when he obtained a Bachelor of Science degree in junior high school education. He was president of the Student Government at college. He has been at Piney Plains ever since graduation.

His wife, the former Miss Irene Michael, was a college classmate and taught with him for several years at Piney Plains.

Adult Swimming Classes Announced

Adult swimming classes will be sponsored by the Red Cross at Constitution Park pool, according to Dr. John T. Gorman, chairman of the water safety committee.

The classes will be held each evening from 7 to 8 o'clock, Monday through Friday beginning June 23, and will continue for at least two weeks.

John Norris will be Red Cross instructor, assisted by Miss Judith Wilson. The classes are open to adult beginners as well as adults who want to improve their swimming.

Officer's Son Struck By Car

The six-year-old son of City Policeman Richard Lashley, 317 Williams Street was struck by an automobile yesterday afternoon as he was riding his bicycle near his home.

Young Richard Lashley was admitted to Memorial Hospital where he was placed in traction with possible back injuries, and X-rays were taken. His condition is listed as "good."

No charges were placed against the driver of the car.

Pair Fined $1,536 For Overload

Two Keyser truckers who were fined a whopping $1,536 plus court costs Wednesday evening have appealed the decision in an overweight case.

N. Howard Rogers, attorney for Gene and Boyd Burgess, trading as Burgess Brothers Farm Service in Keyser, indicated the appeal after the decision was handed down by Justice of the Peace Gay Mellon.

The brothers were fined for overloading on the entire weight of their truck after being stopped last April 24 on New Creek Drive by a State Road Commission weighing team.

The stiff penalty was imposed by Justice Mellon because the truckers were using a vehicle which bore dealer's tags instead of the proper truck license tags.

The brothers told court officials both their regular trucks were being repaired at the time of the incident and that they had borrowed a smaller truck from the Keyser Auto Mart to deliver a load of chicken feed in the emergency.

The truck was stopped by the weighing crew and the men were charged with having an overweight load of 30,200 pounds based on the improper tags.

Court officials said last night the penalty is believed to be the highest ever imposed for an overload case in Keyser.

City Election Voting Machines Now Are Ready

All 28 voting machines for use in the city general election next Tuesday have been prepared by the Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors and other necessary details have been completed, according to Irvin J. Neat, chief clerk and Republican registrar.

The voting machines will be delivered to the 15 voting places Saturday or Monday, Mr. Neat said.

All election supplies, including binders, voting machine keys, return sheets and other paraphernalia will be delivered to the chief judges Saturday.

Allegany Class '38 Reunion Tomorrow

The 1938 class of Allegany High School will hold its 20th class reunion tomorrow at 6 p.m. at the Cumberland Country Club.

The welcome will be by Dr. William Fridinger and Magistrate Fred H. Anderson will conduct a memorial service and a eulogy for Lewyn C. Davis.

Honored guests will include Herman Ball of the Baltimore Colts, and Miss Mary Murray. Mr. Anderson also will give a report of the reunion committee and introduce class members.

C & O Canal Bill Hearings Are Scheduled

Rep. DeWitt S. Hyde announced yesterday that hearings on his C&O Canal Historical Park Bill have been scheduled for June 30 and July 1 by the House Interior and Insular Affairs Committee.

The hearings are scheduled for 10 a. m. in Room 1324 of the New House Office Building.

In announcing the hearings, Rep Hyde said the bill has already passed the Senate and is probably the most important bill that affects a project lying solely within the Sixth District of Maryland, which he represents.

The proposed park, he said, will have national significance and be of great economic and social benefit.

The Senate passed the bill last August 30 but the House, in its last day of the session, was unable to act as there was no time to schedule hearings.

The bill provides for the expenditure of $2,000,000 for the acquisition of additional land along the historic waterway.

It gives the National Park Service authority to acquire up to 15,000 acres of land along the canal route.

Also included is authorization for the construction of a scenic parkway, overlooking the canal, from Route 51 at Paw Paw, W. Va., to Long Ridge Road, near Woodmont, which would connect to a road to U. S. Route 40.

The park itself would extend 165 miles from Great Falls to a point near Cumberland and would comprise some 4,800 acres of land.

The canal property was acquired by the government from the B&O Railroad for $2,000,000 in 1938. The canal property touches the Potomac for the first 100 miles, then departs from the river. About 3,000 acres of land remain in private ownership between the canal and the river.

40 Enroll For Summer Music

About 40 elementary school music students have enrolled for the summer instrumental music program which will be started Monday at 9 a. m. at West Side School and continue for six weeks.

Frank E. Gamble, supervisor of music education in the Allegany County public schools, said that registration is not yet closed. Pupils who still would like to enroll may report to West Side School at the opening session Monday morning. There will be sessions each Monday, Wednesday and Friday for six weeks.

Faculty for the program includes R. Monroe Harris, music teacher at Flintstone High School; Miss Peggy Thompson, a 1956 graduate of Allegany High School now studying at Eastman School of Music, and James Diehl, a 1958 Fort Hill High School graduate, who has received a scholarship to Carnegie Tech.

Fulton Myers Drum Corps Wins Tri-Towns Prize

Fulton Myers Post 156, American Legion Drum and Bugle Corps was awarded top prize for drum corps in last evening's firemen's parade at Westernport and Piedmont.

Sponsored by Tri-Towns Fire Company 1 of Piedmont in connection with a week-long street carnival and benefit, the parade attracted 16 fire companies and their equipment, two drum corps and two bands.

Cash awards also went to the Vigilant Reel and Hose Company of Keyser as the best-appearing fire company and to Mt. City Band of Oakland as the best band.

The parade also included the Lonaconing City Band, the Blue Angels Drum Corps of Victory Post American Legion, Westernport, and candidates for Miss Blue Angel and the little queen, contests being sponsored by the drum corps in connection with their street carnival next week at Westernport.

The parade formed in Westernport and marched across the river to Piedmont where it was disbanded at the carnival grounds. A prize for the fire company coming the greatest distance was not awarded pending a check of mileage. A company from Kingwood and another from Petersburg were considered as possible eligibles.

Jobless Pay Extension Is Expected Today

Assembly Will Get Two Unexpected Bills

By HERB THOMPSON

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — The Maryland Legislature appears set to approve a temporary 13-week extension of unemployment benefits at a special session Friday and battle next January over whether they will be permanently extended.

Finance committees of the House and Senate paved the way for orderly passage of the legislation at a smooth 1½ hour public hearing Thursday afternoon.

The session, intended for one day, could hit a snag on other business, however. Two bills which legislative leaders had not counted on were already in the hopper, and if the Rules Committees let them get to the floor it might open the gates for other measures.

Add Two Bills

The session was called by Gov. McKeldin primarily to extend unemployment pay for jobless workers and consider two loans for the Baltimore civic center and the Charles Center planned for the downtown business area.

One of the two unexpected bills would empower Anne Arundel County's board of "lame duck" commissioners to put county employes under a merit system before the board goes out of office. The other would exempt military installations from a new state cigaret tax which goes into effect July 1.

Leaders of the Rules Committees did not indicate immediately whether they would let them be taken up.

A possible rough passage for the unemployment legislation melted as both business and labor representatives endorsed it at the pre-session meeting of the finance groups.

Raise No Objection

The emergency legislation would permit Maryland to take advantage of a new federal law and pay up to 39 weeks of benefits to unemployed who already have exhausted the 26-week maximum.

No opposition was voiced from committee members or witnesses so long as the bill is temporary in nature. It was pictured by Robert B. Kimble, director of the Department of Employment Security, as "much needed" for 19,446 persons who have exhausted their jobless pay claims in Maryland.

Kimble said the benefits are being exhausted at a rate of 800 per week.

Sen. Turnbull (D-Balto County), chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, asked Kimble if this wouldn't be the "opening gambit" in a move to have the benefits permanently extended.

Kimble didn't answer directly, saying it would be up to the legislature, but W. F. Strong, president of the Maryland-District of Columbia Federation of Labor, served notice that labor would seek to make the 39-week period permanent next January.

"If we already had extended them permanently we wouldn't be in nearly as bad shape today," he told the committees.

Cites Surplus Fund

Labor has tried since 1955 to get the benefit period increased.

William S. Wilson Jr., legislative counsel for the Baltimore Assn. of Commerce, represented a number of business groups at the hearing and went along with the temporary extension.

"There is no question that this is an opening gambit to extend the period," he said to Turnbull, "but we've decided to fight that when we come to it."

Kimble said Maryland's employment security fund from insurance paid by employers has dipped from 116 million dollars last December to 89 million and will require replenishing through higher rates even without the extension.

Could Cost Less

He said the monthly average of persons claiming benefits climbed from 14,900 in 1956 to 21,000 in 1957 to 50,000 for the first five months of this year.

Kimble estimated that up to $7,800,000 in federal funds may be spent by Maryland in providing the additional benefits if the recession continues. He said this money won't have to be repaid until 1963 and that it is his personal belief the states will insist that it be paid from a 900 million dollar surplus fund already held by the federal government and owed to the states.

He said the average check for all persons now drawing unemployment compensation is $29.94 per week. Many people who have exhausted their benefits without gaining re-employment are receiving aid from the State Welfare Department, he said.

County Seeks Bids On Light Fixtures

Sealed bids will be received by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners until 10:30 a. m. Tuesday, July 1, for installing new lighting fixtures in the record room in the office of Joseph E. Boden, Clerk of Circuit Court, and for re-mounting the existing electrical fixtures in two file storage rooms in the basement of the Court House.

General specifications for the work are now available in the office of James G. Stevenson, clerk to the county commissioners. Further information may be obtained from Mr. Boden.

The commissioners reserve the right to reject any and all bids.

ROBERT E. HUNTER

LaVale Man Takes Post In Caracas Plant

Robert E. Hunter, 721 LaVale Terrace, Extrusion development engineer at the Amcelle plant of Celanese Corporation of America, has been promoted to the position of technical assistant to the plant manager at the Caracas, Venezuela, plant of Celanese Venezolana, according to W. E. Crooks, Amcelle plant manager.

Prior to joining the Amcelle organization in July 1955, Hunter held the position of process chemist at Ragonier, Inc., Jesup, Ga.

A native of Seattle, Wash., he is a graduate of the University of Washington where he received a B. S. in Chemical Engineering. As an undergraduate he belonged to the student chapter of American Institute of Chemical Engineers and the Zeta Psi fraternity.

Prominent in local technical organizations, he is presently chairman of the Cumberland Section of the American Society for Quality Control.

He and his wife and three children will sail from New York for South America about July 1.

Hyde Favors Relief For U.S. Railroads

Rep. DeWitt S. Hyde said yesterday he has received hundreds of requests from this area in the form of post cards, letters and a petition urging his support of legislation to help the nation's railroads out of their economic plight.

Congressman Hyde stated that he has answered all of the post cards and letters, but the petition is a photostat copy and many of the 1,650 names and addresses are illegible.

He declared, "I would like each person who signed this petition as well as all other interested citizens to know that I am doing everything I can to get prompt action and early consideration of these bills."

In the Congressional Record for June 9 there appear remarks made by Mr. Hyde to the House of Representatives.

His statement said, in part, "I cannot urge too strongly upon the leadership of the House and Senate the necessity for prompt and early consideration of pending legislation to relieve our railroads from the many burdens under which they are laboring which have long outlived their usefulness.

"In particular, I have in mind Senate Bill 3778 and House Resolution 12488.

"The outmoded, old-fashioned legal regulations on our railroads are one of the major causes for the economic difficulties of this great industry and, hence, one of the major causes of unemployment among our railroad workers. Here is one piece of legislation which will not cost the taxpayers one cent, but which can result in putting thousands of people back to work," he declared.

"Our railroads are not only important to our economy, but are a vital part of our national defense. In fact, they are so important that if we did not have them we would have to create them. The railroads can stand on their own feet — let us remove the restrictive brickbats that are knocking them off their feet."

Congressman Hyde said he is in full sympathy with the plight of the railroads and of furloughed railroad workers. He declared he intends to continue to urge and support action by Congress.

Name Similarity Is Clarified

The Joe Rodeheaver who was fined in Trial Magistrates Court earlier this week after creating a disturbance on Green Ridge Mountain and being abusive with Trooper Kenneth Messmer of the Maryland State Police, is not Joseph Everett Rodeheaver of Star Route 1, Keyser, W. Va.

The 30-year-old man who was brought to jail here by Trooper Messmer is formerly from Farmington, Pa., and now resides in Baltimore.

Mr. Rodeheaver of the Keyser area is 32 and formerly lived in Baltimore, adding to the confusion in the similarity of names.

Non-Reporting Candidates May Face Penalty

Law Requires List Of Receipts, Costs

By ALBERT D. DARBY
News Staff Writer

If the provisions of Sections 223 and 224 of Article 33 of the Election Laws of Maryland are complied with explicitly, State's Attorney James S. Getty could be in for a busy summer prosecuting candidates who have failed to file expense reports in conjunction with the May 20 primary election.

Section 223 states as follows:

"Every treasurer, political agent or candidate for nomination or election to public office shall within 20 days after the primary, general or special election make out and file with the clerk of the circuit court of the county or city in which the treasurer or politial agent or candidate resides, a full, true and itemized statement or report in writing setting forth in detail all contributions and expenditures."

This past Monday was 20 days after the primary election and as of that date 39 candidates, four of whom were unopposed in the primary and whose names did not appear on the ballots, had filed the required reports.

54 File Reports

Through yesterday some 54 candidates, 48 of whom were listed on the primary ballots, had filed their reports. Still unfiled are the reports of three of the defeated Republican candidates for House of Delegates, three defeated Republican candidates for county commissioner, four defeated Republican candidates for the State Central Committee, three Democratic candidates for county commissioner, one of whom passed the primary hurdle, and two successful Democratic candidates for the party's State Central Committee.

Three reports were filed yesterday. One was from James O. Marshall, unsuccessful in his bid for Republican nomination for judge of Orphans Court. He spent $108.38. F. Allan Weatherholt, who gained re-election to the Democratic State Central Committee, reported spending only the $10 filing fee. Leslie J. Clark, who was automatically certified as a delegate to the Democratic State Convention because of a lack of opposition, reported only his $10 filing fee.

The 48 primary election candidates whose names appeared on the ballots and who have submitted reports to Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Allegany County Circuit Court, reported spending a total of $10,799.27. That's an average of just two cents under $225 per candidate.

Six candidates reported expenditures exceeding $500 each. They included William A. Wilson, who gained Republican nomination for county commissioner, $1,042.50; James Orr, who also gained GOP nomination for county commissioner, $956.54; George R. Hughes Jr., who lost the Republican nomination for State Senate, $945.90; W. A. Strother, who failed to get the Republican nomination for county commissioner, $800.62; Charles M. See, winner of the Republican nomination for State Senate, $707.37, and Simeon W. Green, who got the third Republican nomination for county commissioner, $549.30.

May Be Prosecuted

Section 224 (c) reads as follows:

"No person shall be deemed elected to any public office under the laws of this state, or enter upon the duties thereof, or receive any salary or emoluments therefrom until he shall have filed the statement provided for in this section; and no officer authorized by the laws of this state to issue commissions or certificates of election shall issue a commission or certificate of election to any person claiming to be elected to any such office until a copy of such statement as aforesaid shall have been made, verified and filed by such person with such officer."

Section 224 (d) continues:

"Ten days after the period prescribed by Section 223 (20 days after the election) for the filing of a statement or report shall have expired the officer with whom the same is therein required to be filed shall notify the proper prosecuting officer of his county or Baltimore City, as the case may be, of the failure to file such statement on the part of any treasurer, political agent or candidate and within 15 days thereafter such prosecuting officer shall proceed to prosecute for such offense."

Blaze Caught Quickly

Firemen broke open numerous windows along the side of the building and pushed hose through a hole chopped in wire screening, built inside the structure.

The blaze was just making headway, firemen reported, when they got to it. A large hole was burned in the flooring and the plasterboard walls and the ceiling and nearby steel girders were scorched by the flames. The building was filled with dense smoke making the work difficult for firemen at first.

The damage was kept to a minimum, however, as the third floor of the building was unoccupied at the time.

Prowlers Reported

The area to which the fire was confined by the prompt work of the firemen was occupied by the Second Army Reserve some years ago.

Firemen last night said the origin of the blaze is undetermined, but city police said reports have been received of prowlers in the building from time to time.

Evidence of someone breaking into the building was found last week, police stated, when windows were broken and numerous fire extinguishers inside the building were overturned and sprayed about the premises. Walls were damaged and other acts of vandalism were noted at that time.

Firemen returned to their stations shortly after 7 p. m.

Warehouse Fire Is Extinguished

Firemen spray water on the charred embers of the floor and wall of the third floor of the Montgomery Ward Company warehouse on Howard Street after extinguishing a fire yesterday afternoon. The third floor was unoccupied at the time. The floor formerly was occupied by the Second Army Reserve. The Montgomery Ward merchandise was stored on the first floor and was damaged somewhat by water. Firemen are Chauffeur John Morrissey, Lt. William Hartung, Driver Jacob Winters and Pipeman George Lease. Firemen managed to confine damage to the area where it started.

Civil Service Board Halves 30-Day Penalty

The Cumberland Civil Service Commission has sustained one of four charges preferred by the Department of Streets and Public Property against Louis A. Rattenni, a laborer at the Sewage Treatment Plant.

In its unanimous decision, the board sustained the first charge brought by Commissioner William H. Buchholtz but reduced the 30-day suspension to 15 days.

In sustaining the first charge, the commission said the specifications could be better characterized as a continued poor attitude on the part of the employe and that as such the charge was sustained.

The charge was preferred as insubordination—and said in part "that he had on numerous occasions failed to obey reasonable orders given him by superiors without first arguing and debating the reasons for the order."

Fight Proves Expensive To Workmen

A construction crew which puts stone facing on houses yesterday paid $225 to the State's Attorney here to pay medical expenses incurred by a Cumberland man who was assaulted by a member of the crew Tuesday night.

County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya said yesterday that Raymond T. Brandy, 35, of Pittsburgh, Pa., paid the costs of repairs to denture plates and eyeglasses which were broken in the scuffle with James E. Kelly, 539 Patterson Avenue.

Mr. Kelly also sustained severe cuts of the face and nose in the fight which occurred about 11 p.m. Tuesday following a minor traffic accident.

A car driven by Mr. Brandy collided with one operated by Mr. Kelly as the latter attempted to turn off Greene Street onto South Allegany Street.

An argument ensued and Mr. Kelly was struck in the face by Lawrence Stokes, 31, a member of the construction crew who was with Mr. Brandy and another man at the time. Also slightly hurt in the melee, which brought City Police to the scene, was Mr. Kelly's son, Pat.

Police charged both Mr. Brandy and Mr. Kelly with motor vehicle violations which later were dismissed in Trial Magistrates Court. They also charged Mr. Stokes with being drunk and disturbing the peace. The latter paid a $25 fine in Police Court the next day.

Investigator Lilya said assault warrants were sworn out against the Pittsburgh man but the charges were not pressed by the authorities when the construction workers agreed to pay medical expenses for the injured Cumberland man.

Officers Clarence Valentine and James Swann investigated for City Police.

Building Trades Unions To Get 15-Cent Raise

Workers in the building trades will get increases of 15 cents an hour, beginning July 1, according to Harry L. Hickle, president of the Cumberland Building and Construction Trades Council.

He said the increase was gained in peaceful negotiations between building craft unions and area contractors.

All of the contracts, he said, will call for 7½ cents an hour health and welfare payments. Funds are paid to the Construction Industry Insurance Fund of Western Maryland, set up in 1956 to protect workers against hardships resulting from sickness, accident and death.

Current rates range from $1.95 an hour for laborers to $3.65 for shovel operators.

Unions affiliated with the council include the teamsters, carpenters, cement finishers, laborers, iron workers and operating engineers locals.

A number of crafts engaged in the building field are employed by sub-contractors and negotiate contracts with them and not the general contractors.

A letter addressed to the candidates stated "We need your replies no later than noon Saturday, June 14."

The letter also declared: "The cooperation of the newspapers has been assured."

Yesterday a spokesman for the Times-News said neither the Cumberland Evening Times, the Sunday Times nor The Cumberland News has submitted a written list of questions to the candidates.

The spokesman also explained the Times-News has made no commitment to publish the answers to questions submitted by the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce and has no intention of doing so.

Harold Scott Gets McCoole Principalship

Harold Lee Scott of Flintstone, who has been principal of Piney Plains School the last six years, yesterday was named by Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster as the new principal of McCoole Elementary School.

Mr. Scott, who is 28, will succeed Paul M. Arbogast, 742 Baker Street, who was named principal of Johnson Heights Elementary School as successor to Miss Loretto McGeady, who is retiring.

At Piney Plains, the county's eastern-most school, Mr. Scott taught the fifth and sixth grades as the head of a three-teacher school. At McCoole the principalship is full-time and there are eight classroom teachers.

A native of Vale Summit, the new McCoole principal was graduated from Beall High School, Frostburg, in 1947 and from Frostburg State Teachers College in 1952, when he obtained a Bachelor of Science degree in junior high school education. He was president of the Student Government at college. He has been at Piney Plains ever since graduation.

His wife, the former Miss Irene Michael, was a college classmate and taught with him for several years at Piney Plains.

Officer's Son Struck By Car

The six-year-old son of City Policeman Richard Lashley, 317 Williams Street was struck by an automobile yesterday afternoon as he was riding his bicycle near his home.

Young Richard Lashley was admitted to Memorial Hospital where he was placed in traction with possible back injuries, and X-rays were taken. His condition is listed as "good."

No charges were placed against the driver of the car.

Pair Fined $1,536 For Overload

Two Keyser truckers who were fined a whopping $1,536 plus court costs Wednesday evening have appealed the decision in an overweight case.

N. Howard Rogers, attorney for Gene and Boyd Burgess, trading as Burgess Brothers Farm Service in Keyser, indicated the appeal after the decision was handed down by Justice of the Peace Gay Mellon.

The brothers were fined for overloading on the entire weight of their truck after being stopped last April 24 on New Creek Drive by a State Road Commission weighing team.

The stiff penalty was imposed by Justice Mellon because the truckers were using a vehicle which bore dealer's tags instead of the proper truck license tags.

The brothers told court officials both their regular trucks were being repaired at the time of the incident and that they had borrowed a smaller truck from the Keyser Auto Mart to deliver a load of chicken feed in the emergency.

The truck was stopped by the weighing crew and the men were charged with having an overweight load of 30,200 pounds based on the improper tags.

Court officials said last night the penalty is believed to be the highest ever imposed for an overload case in Keyser.

C & O Canal Bill Hearings Are Scheduled

Rep. DeWitt S. Hyde announced yesterday that hearings on his C&O Canal Historical Park Bill have been scheduled for June 30 and July 1 by the House Interior and Insular Affairs Committee.

The hearings are scheduled for 10 a. m. in Room 1324 of the New House Office Building.

In announcing the hearings, Rep Hyde said the bill has already passed the Senate and is probably the most important bill that affects a project lying solely within the Sixth District of Maryland, which he represents.

The proposed park, he said, will have national significance and be of great economic and social benefit.

The Senate passed the bill last August 30 but the House, in its last day of the session, was unable to act as there was no time to schedule hearings.

The bill provides for the expenditure of $2,000,000 for the acquisition of additional land along the historic waterway.

It gives the National Park Service authority to acquire up to 15,000 acres of land along the canal route.

Also included is authorization for the construction of a scenic parkway, overlooking the canal, from Route 51 at Paw Paw, W. Va., to Long Ridge Road, near Woodmont, which would connect to a road to U. S. Route 40.

The park itself would extend 165 miles from Great Falls to a point near Cumberland and would comprise some 4,800 acres of land.

The canal property was acquired by the government from the B&O Railroad for $2,000,000 in 1938. The canal property touches the Potomac for the first 100 miles, then departs from the river. About 3,000 acres of land remain in private ownership between the canal and the river.

40 Enroll For Summer Music

About 40 elementary school music students have enrolled for the summer instrumental music program which will be started Monday at 9 a. m. at West Side School and continue for six weeks.

Frank E. Gamble, supervisor of music education in the Allegany County public schools, said that registration is not yet closed. Pupils who still would like to enroll may report to West Side School at the opening session Monday morning. There will be sessions each Monday, Wednesday and Friday for six weeks.

Faculty for the program includes R. Monroe Harris, music teacher at Flintstone High School; Miss Peggy Thompson, a 1956 graduate of Allegany High School now studying at Eastman School of Music, and James Diehl, a 1958 Fort Hill High School graduate, who has received a scholarship to Carnegie Tech.

The parade also included the Lonaconing City Band, the Blue Angels Drum Corps of Victory Post American Legion, Westernport, and candidates for Miss Blue Angel and the little queen, contests being sponsored by the drum corps in connection with their street carnival next week at Westernport.

The parade formed in Westernport and marched across the river to Piedmont where it was disbanded at the carnival grounds. A prize for the fire company coming the greatest distance was not awarded pending a check of mileage. A company from Kingwood and another from Petersburg were considered as possible eligibles.

Jobless Pay Extension Is Expected Today

Assembly Will Get Two Unexpected Bills

By HERB THOMPSON

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — The Maryland Legislature appears set to approve a temporary 13-week extension of unemployment benefits at a special session Friday and battle next January over whether they will be permanently extended.

Finance committees of the House and Senate paved the way for orderly passage of the legislation at a smooth 1½ hour public hearing Thursday afternoon.

The session, intended for one day, could hit a snag on other business, however. Two bills which legislative leaders had not counted on were already in the hopper, and if the Rules Committees let them get to the floor it might open the gates for other measures.

Add Two Bills

The session was called by Gov. McKeldin primarily to extend unemployment pay for jobless workers and consider two loans for the Baltimore civic center and the Charles Center planned for the downtown business area.

One of the two unexpected bills would empower Anne Arundel County's board of "lame duck" commissioners to put county employes under a merit system before the board goes out of office. The other would exempt military installations from a new state cigaret tax which goes into effect July 1.

Leaders of the Rules Committees did not indicate immediately whether they would let them be taken up.

A possible rough passage for the unemployment legislation melted as both business and labor representatives endorsed it at the presession meeting of the finance groups.

Raise No Objection

The emergency legislation would permit Maryland to take advantage of a new federal law and pay up to 39 weeks of benefits to unemployed who already have exhausted the 26-week maximum.

No opposition was voiced from committee members or witnesses so long as the bill is temporary in nature. It was pictured by Robert B. Kimble, director of the Department of Employment Security, as "much needed" for 19,446 persons who have exhausted their jobless pay claims in Maryland.

Kimble said the benefits are being exhausted at a rate of 800 per week.

Sen. Turnbull (D-Balto County), chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, asked Kimble if this wouldn't be the "opening gambit" in a move to have the benefits permanently extended.

Kimble didn't answer directly, saying it would be up to the legislature, but W. F. Strong, president of the Maryland-District of Columbia Federation of Labor, served notice that labor would seek to make the 39-week period permanent next January.

"If we already had extended them permanently we wouldn't be in nearly as bad shape today," he told the committees.

Cites Surplus Fund

Labor has tried since 1955 to get the benefit period increased.

William S. Wilson Jr., legislative counsel for the Baltimore Assn. of Commerce, represented a number of business groups at the hearing and went along with the temporary extension.

"There is no question that this is an opening gambit to extend the period," he said to Turnbull, "but we've decided to fight that when we come to it."

Kimble said Maryland's employment security fund from insurance paid by employers has dipped from 116 million dollars last December to 89 million and will require replenishing through higher rates even without the extension.

Could Cost Less

He said the monthly average of persons claiming benefits climbed from 14,900 in 1956 to 21,000 in 1957 to 50,000 for the first five months of this year.

Kimble estimated that up to $7,800,000 in federal funds may be spent by Maryland in providing the additional benefits if the recession continues. He said this money won't have to be repaid until 1963 and that it is his personal belief the states will insist that it be paid from a 900 million dollar surplus fund already held by the federal government and owed to the states.

He said the average check for all persons now drawing unemployment compensation is $29.94 per week. Many people who have exhausted their benefits without gaining re-employment are receiving aid from the State Welfare Department, he said.

County Seeks Bids On Light Fixtures

Sealed bids will be received by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners until 10:30 a. m. Tuesday, July 1, for installing new lighting fixtures in the record room in the office of Joseph E. Boden, Clerk of Circuit Court, and for re-mounting the existing electrical fixtures in two file storage rooms in the basement of the Court House.

General specifications for the work are now available in the office of James G. Stevenson, clerk to the county commissioners. Further information may be obtained from Mr. Boden.

The commissioners reserve the right to reject any and all bids.

E. Crooks, Amcelle plant manager.

He and his wife and three children will sail from New York for South America about July 1.

Hyde Favors Relief For U.S. Railroads

Rep. DeWitt S. Hyde said yesterday he has received hundreds of requests from this area in the form of post cards, letters and a petition urging his support of legislation to help the nation's railroads out of their economic plight.

Congressman Hyde stated that he has answered all of the post cards and letters, but the petition is a photostat copy and many of the 1,650 names and addresses are illegible.

He declared, "I would like each person who signed this petition as well as all other interested citizens to know that I am doing everything I can to get prompt action and early consideration of these bills."

In the Congressional Record for June 9 there appear remarks made by Mr. Hyde to the House of Representatives.

His statement said, in part, "I cannot urge too strongly upon the leadership of the House and Senate the necessity for prompt and early consideration of pending legislation to relieve our railroads from the many burdens under which they are laboring which have long outlived their usefulness.

"In particular, I have in mind Senate Bill 3778 and House Resolution 12488.

"The outmoded, old-fashioned legal regulations on our railroads are one of the major causes for the economic difficulties of this great industry and, hence, one of the major causes of unemployment among our railroad workers. Here is one piece of legislation which will not cost the taxpayers one cent, but which can result in putting thousands of people back to work," he declared.

"Our railroads are not only important to our economy, but are a vital part of our national defense. In fact, they are so important that if we did not have them we would have to create them. The railroads can stand on their own feet — let us remove the restrictive brickbats that are knocking them off their feet."

Congressman Hyde said he is in full sympathy with the plight of the railroads and of furloughed railroad workers. He declared he intends to continue to urge and support action by Congress.

Name Similarity Is Clarified

The Joe Rodeheaver who was fined in Trial Magistrates Court earlier this week after creating a disturbance on Green Ridge Mountain and being abusive with Trooper Kenneth Messmer of the Maryland State Police, is not Joseph Everett Rodeheaver of Star Route 1, Keyser, W. Va.

The 30-year-old man who was brought to jail here by Trooper Messmer is formerly from Farmington, Pa., and now resides in Baltimore.

Mr. Rodeheaver of the Keyser area is 32 and formerly lived in Baltimore, adding to the confusion in the similarity of names.

Non-Reporting Candidates May Face Penalty

Law Requires List Of Receipts, Costs

By ALBERT D. DARBY
News Staff Writer

If the provisions of Sections 223 and 224 of Article 33 of the Election Laws of Maryland are complied with explicitly, State's Attorney James S. Getty could be in for a busy summer prosecuting candidates who have failed to file expense reports in conjunction with the May 20 primary election.

Section 223 states as follows:

"Every treasurer, political agent or candidate for nomination or election to public office shall within 20 days after the primary, general or special election make out and file with the clerk of the circuit court of the county or city in which the treasurer or politial agent or candidate resides, a full, true and itemized statement or report in writing setting forth in detail all contributions and expenditures."

This past Monday was 20 days after the primary election and as of that date 39 candidates, four of whom were unopposed in the primary and whose names did not appear on the ballots, had filed the required reports.

54 File Reports

Through yesterday some 54 candidates, 48 of whom were listed on the primary ballots, had filed their reports. Still unfiled are the reports of three of the defeated Republican candidates for House of Delegates, three defeated Republican candidates for county commissioner, four defeated Republican candidates for the State Central Committee, three Democratic candidates for county commissioner, one of whom passed the primary hurdle, and two successful Democratic candidates for the party's State Central Committee.

Three reports were filed yesterday. One was from James O. Marshall, unsuccessful in his bid for Republican nomination for judge of Orphans Court. He spent $108.38. F. Allan Weatherholt, who gained re-election to the Democratic State Central Committee, reported spending only the $10 filing fee. Leslie J. Clark, who was automatically certified as a delegate to the Democratic State Convention because of a lack of opposition, reported only his $10 filing fee.

The 48 primary election candidates whose names appeared on the ballots and who have submitted reports to Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Allegany County Circuit Court, reported spending a total of $10,799.27. That's an average of just two cents under $225 per candidate.

Six candidates reported expenditures exceeding $500 each. They included William A. Wilson, who gained Republican nomination for county commissioner, $1,042.50; James Orr, who also gained GOP nomination for county commissioner, $956.54; George R. Hughes Jr., who lost the Republican nomination for State Senate, $945.90; W. A. Strother, who failed to get the Republican nomination for county commissioner, $800.62; Charles M. See, winner of the Republican nomination for State Senate, $707.37, and Simeon W. Green, who got the third Republican nomination for county commissioner, $549.30.

May Be Prosecuted

The real meat of the expense report law is found in Section 224 of Article 33.

Section 224 (c) reads as follows:

"No person shall be deemed elected to any public office under the laws of this state, or enter upon the duties thereof, or receive any salary or emoluments therefrom until he shall have filed the statement provided for in this section; and no officer authorized by the laws of this state to issue commissions or certificates of election shall issue a commission or certificate of election to any person claiming to be elected to any such office until a copy of such statement as aforesaid shall have been made, verified and filed by such person with such officer."

Section 224 (d) continues:

"Ten days after the period prescribed by Section 223 (20 days after the election) for the filing of a statement or report shall have expired the officer with whom the same is therein required to be filed shall notify the proper prosecuting officer of his county or Baltimore City, as the case may be, of the failure to file such statement on the part of any treasurer, political agent or candidate and within 15 days thereafter such prosecuting officer shall proceed to prosecute for such offense."
